Indiana University Honors Program

Each summer Indiana University offers the opportunity of a lifetime to gifted foreign language students. Penn High School students must take a series of tests and be formally interviewed before being selected to travel abroad to a foreign country for seven weeks of the summer. While abroad, the students are unable to speak an ounce of English, which is demanding on them both academically and emotionally. The idea behind the program is full immersion into the culture, so that by the end of the seven weeks, the students have an understanding of their selected foreign language and country far beyond what any classroom setting could provide.

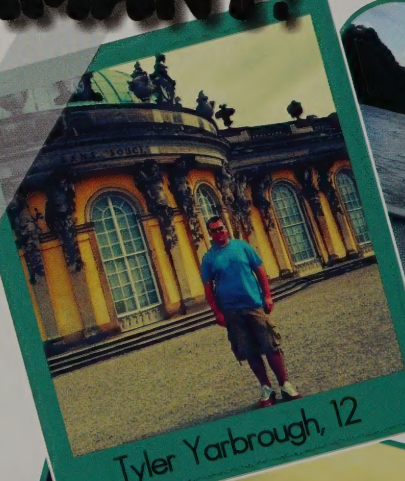

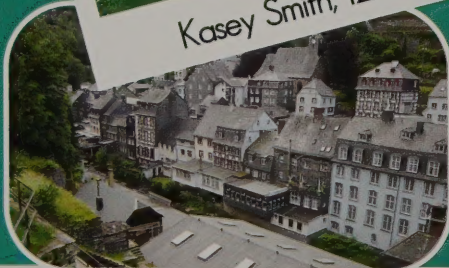

"I was extremely immersed in the German culture. It now makes me realize how quickly I can learn and become accustomed to completely new things. I now know that I can grow and mature when I put myself through different challenges!"

NEW KIDS ROUND HERE BUT NOT FOR LONG

The freshman class has many strengths that added to the Penn High School environment. Academics, athletics, and much creativity were only some aspects of it. These students learned quickly the ways of Penn and how to fit in...making new friends day by day, experiencing crazy first high school moments, creating lasting memories and friendships that they will remember for a life time...this is the class of 2016's freshman year.

THE NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK

"Transitioning into high school was not what I expected; it is not as scary as it sounds." Alex Schwindaman

Several freshmen earned State Honors for Academic Super Bowl.

Grace Kiraly and Drew Hildebrandt excelled in their sports, rugby and wrestling.

Mikaylah Woods competed in the Track State finals and placed 24th.

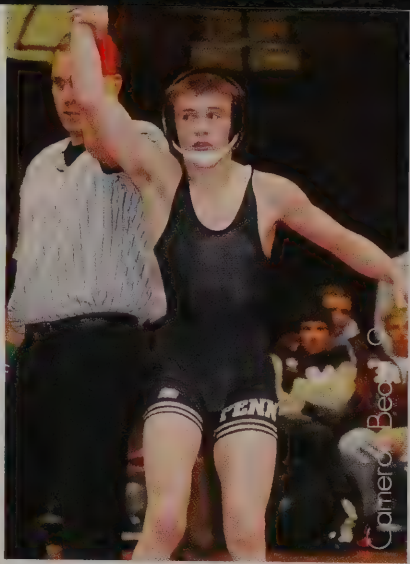

House 4 took a trip to Chicago to go on the architect tour.

ABOVE AND BEYOND

Whether it's football or theater, swimming or robotics, students at Penn go above and beyond to achieve and make the best of their high school years.

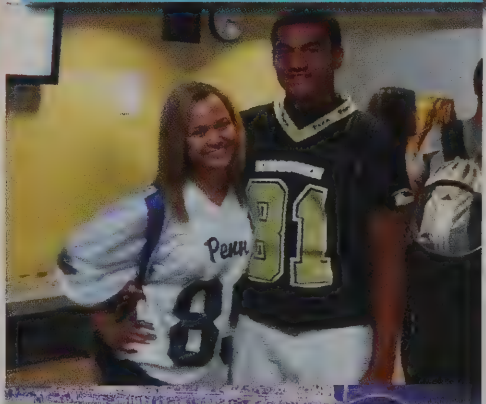

Justin Holt liked to spend his time practicing his swing on the golf course with his fellow teammates.

his year has been a great chance to always meet new people and be surrounded with new experiences. Sophomore year is one that I will remember for the rest of my life. My favorite part about sophomore year would have to be making a lot of new friends. My least favorite part about sophomore year is still being an underclassman.

JUNIORS

we have one more year...

When a junior steps into their first gold day class at the end of August, but the beginning of a fresh new school year, the vibe is completely different than the first day of school freshman or sophomore year. No longer is high school "new and exciting", but it is starting to feel old and tiresome. The tale goes that junior year is the most difficult year, where things start getting serious. No longer could one glide through classes with minimal studying the night before a quiz, but now most students have taken two to three AP classes which require an ample amount of studying each night. Some juniors begin their third year of one language or first year of a second language, read classic American literature novels such as The Great Gatsby or The Crucible, dive into excruciating math and science courses, and study each and every event that occurred in US history. School becomes serious for most this year, especially with colleges beginning their look at students. With the help of friends, teachers, and the weekends, most Juniors can say they survived their toughest year yet.

AHEAD OF THE REST, THE CLASS OF 2014 IS THE BEST

"Although this was my first year here, it has been a lot of fun! I like school, but I don't."

"Junior year has been one of big changes and awkward conversations, and I wouldn't change a single detail."

KC Brook
has lived in 4 states: Indiana, Alabama, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

Zachary Stabrowski
loves 80's music.

"Junior year has required me to become less friendly with my bed and more friendly with my books... but at least I'm a smaller person for it." - Cat Vagstad, 11

With 841 students that make up the junior class, there are definitely bound to be students who go "above and beyond." This doesn't only apply to the students with brains, but to those who excel in the fine arts, sports, and volunteer work.

Shan Antony, Matt Butler, and John Rushemeza are three best friends, having hung out since the fourth grade.

longer considered the "under dogs" of high school, juniors begin to uncover just how difficult their third year of high school is. Many students start visiting and deciding on their favorite colleges, studying for either the SAT or ACT, and taking rigorous AP classes to ensure acceptance to their dream college. Junior year is considered to be the toughest year of them all, but with hard work and dedication all of the students make it through. Although not seniors, the juniors look forward with anticipation to becoming the "top dogs" of school.

"I have a twin brother. People ask us if we are identical."

back in our day

WHETHER IT WAS THE HORROR

that flashed before our eyes as we gripped the gas pump at the Bittersweet corner station after school, or the excitement and subsequent jealousy we felt when our classmate got their upgrade to the highly anticipated iPhone 5, it was no secret, as it is every year, that times are a changin'. Here's a little nostalgic snapshot of the our time, during those 10 short months we spend in and out of the hallowed halls of Penn High School.

Amusing enough, it's pretty safe to say you had a better chance of seeing an iPhone present in a student's hand than an I.D. around a student's neck. With games like Ruzzle or Bike Race to entertain the sometimes "useless" 88 minutes almost every freshman, sophomore, and junior are required to attend, who would need studying?

"CANT BE LATE

again or Todd (his father) will throw a fit," Senior Troy Tirotta sarcastically remarked with concern. Every morning "Main" as it's referred to by students, was filled at least by 8:00 a.m.-8:10 a.m., on a good day. Instead of breaking the rules and sneaking into the staff parking lot, he found himself a nice spot in the second row, casually slinking out the passenger side door and making his way towards Door C. Bold move, Mr. Tirotta.

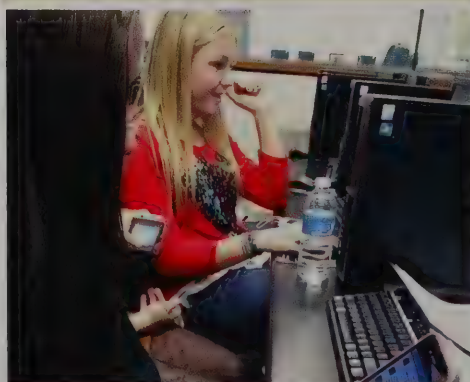

who runs the world

"FORGET FACEBOOK," TOLD #TWITTER in a fight for the top spot as King of Social Networking unfolded in early 2012. It's no question that the ever popular website that ultimately changed the game is going down the drain, with indicators such as stock price showing dismal expectations of the future.

"Nobody can comment on what you have to say, you can just say what you want when you want," said Courtney Harjung, 12. Senior Kira Smith discussed other pros of twitter that included the ability to choose whose tweets you want to read, chiming in "If you don't like my tweets, #unfollowme."

BARACK OBAMA, THE 44TH PRESIDENT of the United States of America, won his second term in early November of 2012. The President called the youth of today to action during his State of the Union Address. "It is our generation's task, then, to reignite the true engine of America's economic growth - a rising, thriving middle class." Keep that in mind, Class of 2013, as you embark on your journey into the real world.

rock the vote

This year's seniors had the honor and privilege to vote in the 2012 Presidential Election between President Barack Obama and Governor Mitt Romney on November 6th, exercising their civic duties as Americans. While not all students at Penn High were old enough to vote, many took initiative to educate themselves on the issues, take a stance, and support their choice candidate. Many also took these views online, expressing them through social media outlets such as Twitter and Facebook. Whether they voted Democrat or Republican, Penn students showed a significant interest throughout the Fall proving themselves to be active citizens in their community and nation alike.

"We are not the future generation. We are the here and now. While our peers may not be in Congress, decisions made by our government effect each and every one of us equally. To me and as adults it is very important to take a stand on important issues and to know which candidates support your own viewpoints," defended senior J.T. Schwartz.

"As a young person interested in politics, I primarily have issues with being constantly portrayed as too idealistic and someone not to be taken seriously. It became evident that it was beneficial to be informed about the environment around us--a greater understanding of these elements gives us the tools to be aware of inequality and pushes us to make change. This set the stage for my greater political involvement and interest up until now," Junior Elena Sucharetza eloquently stated.

Denise Honaker's Black 1, Dance I class reviewed the positions of the feet and arms during their ballet unit. Dance I attracts many freshmen looking for a creative way to learn and participate at Penn, not to mention the large class size and nature allows for friends to be made in an even larger school of over 3,000 students.

Channeling her creative energy, Claudia Milazzo, 12, decorated her pink bra with yellow, purple, and green feathers to add the finishing touches. An annual Breast Cancer Awareness Month art project sponsored by the Penn Organization of Women, this event donated over 40 bras to be auctioned at a fundraiser for the RiverBend Cancer Services.

Faye Zhou, 12, carefully looked over her AP Econ notes to prepare for her final test. "The textbook for this class is practically written in a foreign language. I have to definitely put in time and effort in order to pass this class, but I took it because it's something of importance to me and the field I wish to study in college."

tricks and treats

With Halloween on a Wednesday this year, students and teachers got festive for the holiday by dressing up in full costume, decorating their classrooms, or throwing office parties for faculty and student assistants. Study Hall teachers Amy Pontius, Kris Lenig and Karen Rallo got the spirit going dressed as a vampire, pumpkin, and witch. One student even bravely faced all the other ghouls and goblins dressed as a dragon complete with six foot tail and flippers that he wore all day long. Sculpture teacher Beth McKechnie looked frightful in her troll-doll earrings carrying saw and bloodied head, a project from years past that couldn't be more appropriate as a room decoration for this day. Sierra Bickel, 12, kept her costume simple, sporting black cat ears, popular for many students who wanted to participate without being distracting to their studies.

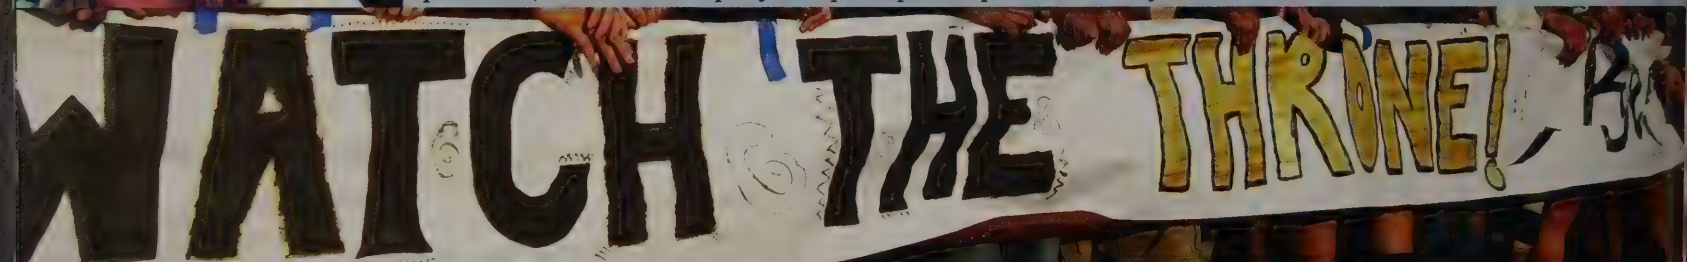

A Little Bit LOUDER

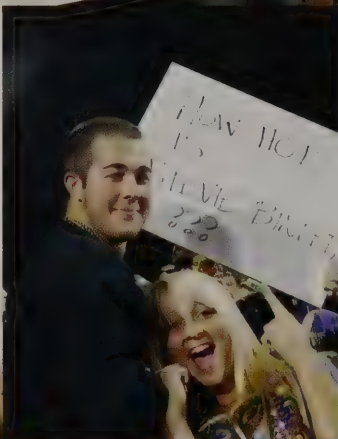

Now!

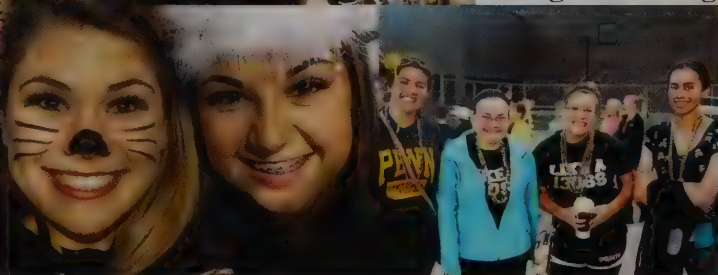

Whether it's cross country, volleyball, soccer, or football, the students of Penn High School are out supporting their school. Every year, the student section nominates a senior to be their Kingsman for the school year. Stephen Antcliff, 12, rocked the votes. Antcliff was in charge of going to each and every meet and game to get the spirit up and lead student section cheers. The opening chant for many school events was one that never went unheard, "I believe that we will win." This chant helped get the students, parents, and fellow players pumped up and rowdy.

Senior Leo Svete made a cape to honor all seniors on the football senior night. Senior night is when all seniors are recognized for the sports they are involved in. Senior night has been a tradition at Penn for many years.

Madison Parker, Tori Cartwright, and Jessica Hinsey, 12, dressed up for the varsity volleyball game. Cartwright dressed as a skunk and made a sign that said "Central Stinks" to hold up during the home game against Elkhart Central.

Traditions of excellence

Boys' varsity football came, saw, and conquered the NIC, as always.

SENIOR MICHAEL MASON // kept his focus, especially during early key games such as the "Backyard Brawl." Mason ran 120 yards against the Mishawaka Cavemen in stifling heat that August evening across town at Steele Stadium.

SENIOR SAM DAGGY // an undeniably huge asset to the defensive line, was always there to make the play when he needed to. Standing tall at 6'2" he tackled the Clay Colonials' ball carrier, pushing him back for a loss that contributed to the 49-0 win for the Kingsmen. Daggy was named one of the NIC's Top Defensive Linemen.

COACH CORY YEOMAN // was overcome with joy after a big hit that sealed the 30-13 lead over the Adams Eagles, the Kingsmen's final match up before sending them into the playoffs, as well as "Senior Night."

SENIOR MATT WIRICK // sprinted downfield during a crazy 68-yard run following a punt return, putting the Kingsmen with a 41-7 lead in the third quarter. Reflecting upon his season and the four years he spent playing for the "Gold Rush" he remembers the highs and lows of playing Penn Football. "My teammates are the guys I know I can talk to about anything--I mean, we spend every day together at practice, Friday nights at games...It meant so much to be a part of this team."

You play for the people in the stands, your community watching you, the kids playing catch on our practice field with the poster up on their walls. You play to continue the legacy and, most of all, you play to prove them wrong."

- Kade Maggart, 12

Center Gabe Miller, 18, played in the Semper Fidelis All-American Bowl in January 2013 in Carson, California. Miller will attend the University of Nebraska.

Senior Matt Hummel tore through defenders to go the final distance and made one of many first downs for the Kingsmen at Freed Field. Scoring a touchdown on this drive with five minutes left, Hummel contributed another six points, eventually leaving the Colonials in the dust with a 21-0 lead leaving the first quarter.

Inoke Moala, 11, blocked two of St. Joseph's defenders simultaneously while junior kicker Loren McSorley punted the ball downfield. Teamwork like this was crucial for the Kingsmen offense, defense, or special teams, leading the black and gold to a 38-10 victory for their Homecoming game.

Donning their white (and later dirt stained) away jerseys, Penn's defensive line, appropriately named the "Wild Bunch," played with passion against Warsaw in the cold rain that October evening. Senior Trevor Manspeaker looked over to defensive coordinator for the play call while teammates #76, Joey Kline, Samuel Daggy, Mark Winovich and #22 waited.

GAME CHANGERS

"My brothers all played and I was the last to prove myself, so every game, especially during this season, you play to win."

- CORY STANLEY, 12

"It's easy for me to take charge because of the great senior leadership I've had this year and learned from in the past."

- ZACH OAKLEY, 11

"I'm really going to miss all the goofy stuff Coach Cory says."

- TRAVIS NETHERCUTT, 12

"Penn football is a brotherhood I would never turn my back on, ever."

- JOEY KLINE, 12

Another season down

In the fall of 2012, the Penn varsity cheerleading team supported the football team at each and every game. Through the scorching heat and blistering winter winds, the girls provided every game with booming voices that carried motivational cheers far past the stadium's walls. The cheerleaders worked hard throughout the summer to master skilled stunting techniques and perfect cheer techniques. The season ended with 16 girls learning teamwork, discipline, and poise.

SENIORS Jessica Hinsey, Kirsten Hoffman, and Hannah Hestad cheer with the student section in order to get the team pumped up.

Every year the cheerleaders dress up for Halloween. Separated by grade, they chose what to wear. The sophomores were pirates, juniors Minnie Mouse, and the seniors were football players.

Both the varsity and junior varsity cheer teams lined up along the sidelines to cheer on the boys as they came out for their warm up before the game.

SENIORS

Each senior on the Penn varsity cheerleading team has been a part of the program since her freshman year. Most of the girls even participated in camps held by the Penn Cheerleaders when they were kids. Throughout four years as teammates, these eight seniors have bonded not only as a cheer squad but also as a family.

Chasing Glory, Shredding Grass

Whether he was a striker or a defender, each member of the Kingsmen's 2012 soccer team consistently brought their "A" game when they stepped onto the field. A team of players that had competed together since their club soccer days knew the definition of "dedicated." Two-a-day practices, summer conditioning, and weeknight games can try a student athlete, but each athlete showed once again that the well-rounded team was not to be messed with, ending their season with an impressive record.

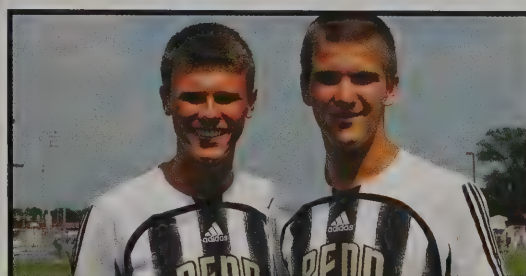

The Kingsmen have a tradition of leading a scrimmage with area youth teams during their half time. Varsity players led the boys onto the field to be introduced by the announcer, each Kingsman ushering two young players.

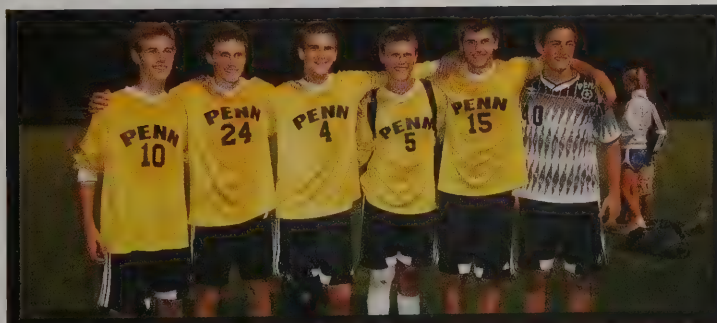

Twin brothers Gavin and Griffin Hoffman, sophomores, were born with not only an identical appearance, but also an identical passion for soccer. Both have been members of the team since their freshman year.

Forward Rhiley McIntire and center back Drew Conrady smiled in anticipation for a successful season. Best friends since their freshman year, the two seniors planned to play college soccer the following fall.

VARSITY BOYS' SOCCER Seniors 2012

The class of 2013 led their team in their senior season, scoring a lot of goals between the six of them. As a tradition on senior night, the boys' friends and family came out and celebrated the four seasons of soccer each member had at Penn. The boys ended their final high school soccer season with pride.

The Beautiful Game

For the first time in four years, the varsity soccer team took home the NIC title with a 7-1 record in the NIC and an undefeated record at home. To win the title, Penn beat a St. Joseph team ranked third in the state. In the final minutes Penn went ahead to win by a score of 2-1. Under the helm of first year head coach Jeff Hart, the team finished with an overall record of 12-5-4 and ended the season as Sectional Champions. "I was proud of how this team came together over the season," said Hart.

Stephanie Batalis, 12

Keepers

The starting duo of Ashley Waite and Maya Solomon worked hard to keep the ball out of the net. Together, Waite and Solomon recorded ten shutouts in an impressive season.

Maya Solomon, 11

Ashley Waite, 11

Kasey Smith, 12

Cassidy O'Block, 12, during her senior speech at the end of the season said to her teammates, "Five months ago, Coach Jeff introduced me to you guys, and I thought, 'Wait a second, Could it be?' But now, I know for sure. I just added 43 more people to my wolf pack! We are blood sisters!"

Courtney Shreve, 11, far left, passed the ball upfield while under pressure. Shreve played outside back for the Kingsman. Kamara Solomon, 9, near, dribbled past midfield and looked for an open teammate. Solomon also set a record for most assists in a single season for a freshman.

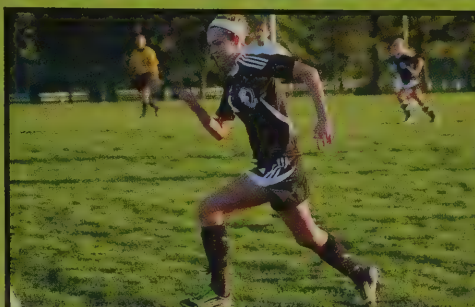

Claire Brooks, 11, left, started at center back for the Kingsman, and was named to the Honorable Mention All-NIC team this year. Rachel Medow, 12, right, put pressure on a defender in front of the goal. Medow played forward this season for Penn. Melissa Collier, 12, above right, played forward for Penn as well.

Captains

Kimberly Luttrell, 12, had an incredible senior season. She finished the year with 17 career assists and scored the first goal in the upset of 3rd ranked St. Joseph. When asked what motivated Luttrell throughout the season, she mentioned a favorite quote by Vince Lombardi, "It's not whether you get knocked down; it's whether you get back up." Luttrell was named to the First team all NIC, First team All District, and Honorable Mention All State.

Diana Diaz-Diurych, 12, was named to the first team All-NIC and 2nd Team All-District. Diaz-Diurych scored the game winning goal in the final five minutes of the upset of St. Joseph. "The greatest feeling in the world was watching the clock hit 00:00 in the St. Joe game. Sweet, sweet victory. Good luck to my sisters next year!"

Carley McCarthy, 12, played outside back for the Kingsmen. Originally, McCarthy was a striker, but when moved to defense, she was chosen to be on the 2nd team All-NIC. For McCarthy, "Beating St. Joe was the absolute best feeling ever." When asked about her final season, she said, "I will never forget my senior season and all the hilarious memories we made as a team."

Bailey O'Malley, 12, played center back for the Kingsmen this season. She was placed on the 2nd team All-NIC and was named a Top Team player for District. "I couldn't have asked for a better four years of soccer. I loved every second of it from the intense school rivalries to the bonds we shared as teammates. Being part of the Penn soccer program made me into who I am today."

Walter and Anderson advanced to State with a 24-0 record after they beat Concord in the championship, 6-2, 7-5. Unfortunately, their partnership almost ended over the State championship tournament when Walter cut his finger on his serving hand. He had to serve underhand at State, but turned out to be pretty good at serving that way, and it didn't affect his game at all. The boys hoped to be the second doubles team ever at Penn to win the state doubles tournament, but they were not successful.

PENN TENNIS 2012

"FAMILY'S first, and that's what matters most. We realize that our love goes deeper than the tennis game." Serena Williams. // If you asked any one of the boys on the tennis team, each one of them would agree that they aren't just a team, but one huge family. Most of the players on the team have been playing together for years before even coming to high school. Once the boys gripped their racquets, they were ready to play, and to come out with a win for their team. Through all of the hard work, sweat, and tears, the members of the boys' tennis teams had a fantastic season, with their doubles team going to state in mid-October.

MICHAEL Wang, 10, was named the Northern Indiana Conference's MVP for the season. Wang was one of seven other players from the area's high schools that made up the first team. Coach Eric Bowers told the South Bend Tribune that Wang had gotten better and better as the season went on, becoming more and more consistent.

GEORGE Hamilton, 10, anticipated the ball while getting his racquet ready to hit it over the net. This was Hamilton's second year on the varsity team. He was one of three sophomores to make the varsity team again, along with Brendan Butler and Michael Wang.

JUSTICE Lawson, 10, whacked the ball over the net to his opponent. In doubles, Lawson was partnered with Brian Richman, 11. The pair won their match against Elkhart Central. The team altogether won against Central, 5-0.

PLAY WITH PASSION, PLAY WITH HEART

The Varsity volleyball team completed their season with a 33-6 record. They finished first in the NIC with a record of 8-0 and were Sectional and Regional Champions. They made it into the Semi-State Final Four but fell to Carmel High School in the championship game. Seniors Becca Lira and Jasmine Obren made All Conference First team and juniors Meg Gabbard, Lexi Ball, and Aly Schneider made All Conference Second team. Becca Lira made second team All State. Coach Sarah Hendricks told the South Bend Tribune in an interview after the Semi-State game, "They're a great team. I'm proud that we got here."

Seniors McKenna Carter and Jasmine Obren smile after a win for the Kingsmen with junior Aly Schneider. The three girls played volleyball together for three years at Penn. Carter and Obren had been playing together since they were in 6th grade.

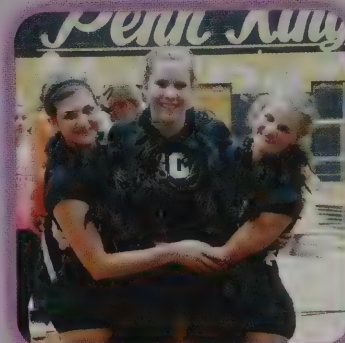

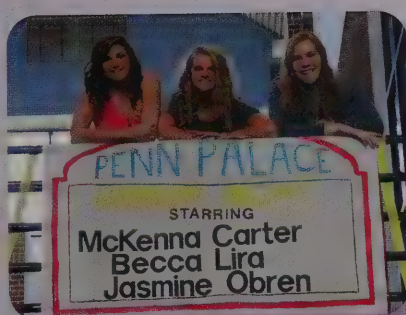

Players celebrated after a score at a tournament. The Penn volleyball team traveled to play in tournaments on weekends. They played in a total of five weekend tournaments throughout the season.

The varsity team stood with their hands locked, showing their matching hair-dos. They made red, white, and blue bows in honor of September 11th. The team had a close bond throughout the season.

Run Hard, Be Strong, Think Big

Boys' Cross Country

The Boys' Cross Country team had a very successful season. The beginning of the season started out slow, then moved into an exciting tournament season. They ended their season in Fort Wayne Indiana at semi-state. Unfortunately, the team placed 11th ending their season there. The top seven stood together for a cheer before the sectional meet. Three of the top seven ran together at Regionals to help the team advance to semi-state.

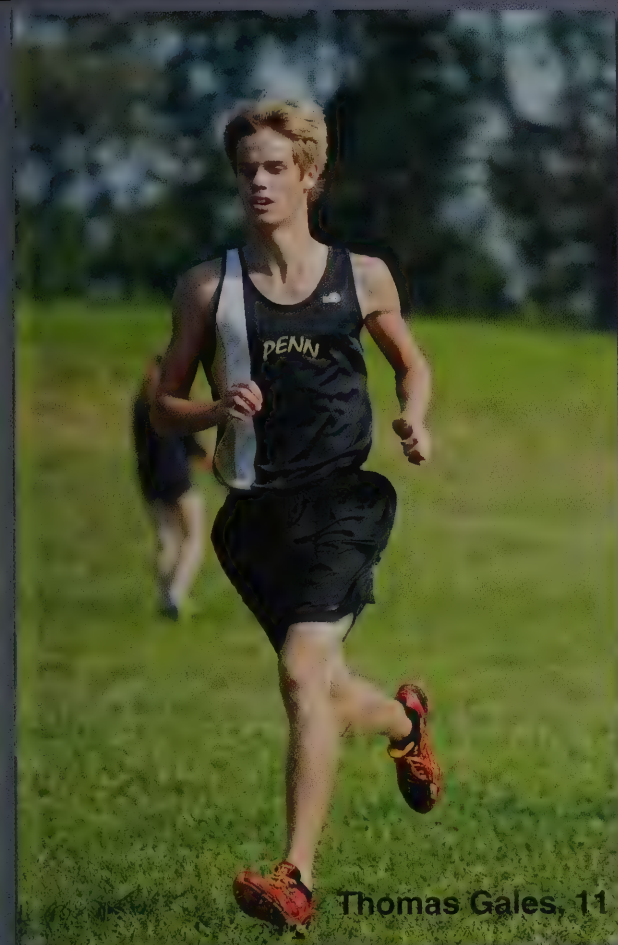

Billy Holbert, 12 Taylor Neff, 11 Kyle Irvin, 12

The boys' team won the Northern Indiana Conference meet for the first time since 2001. "That meet was awesome. We won all the races boys and girls, JV and varsity. It was even more memorable since Penn was projected to not win anything, then, to come win it all was cool. We beat all the other teams out of the water. We definitely scared some teams that day, giving them a sense of what's coming." -Thomas Gales, junior

Bryce Stipp, 11 Cole Shearer, 11 Jon Shead, 12 Jaylyn Mallory, 12 Jack Mader, 10 Jeremy Starkweather, 12 Louis Cutrona

Thomas Gales, 11

One of the fun races the team had was the Hokum Karem Invitational. This race is a relay for two runners. The boys stood on the starting line waiting for the starter to fire the gun.

Billy Holbert, senior, ran all four years of his high school career. Holbert moved up from being a part of the JV team to Penn's constant number two runner, giving the team a new edge.

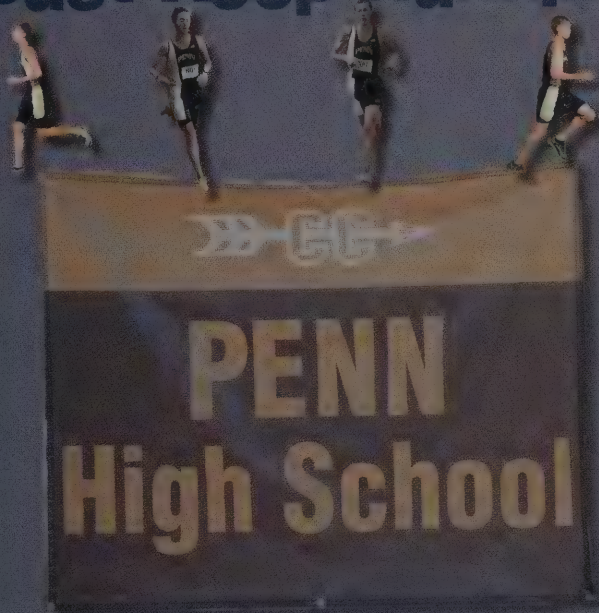

The boys formed a pack and ran together during the Penn, Washington and Marian meet. That was the team's only home meet on their new course at Meadows Edge Elementary.

Timmy Butler, 12, helped Penn place third at the sectional meet. From the sectional meet they advanced to regionals and the team faced off with new teams.

Just Keep Running

Colin Kennedy, 11, led a strong pack of underclassmen. They all looked ahead for the next turn to continue the race.

PXC takes 18th in State

The Lady Kingsmen started their season down in the dumps, not winning very many meets and having many runners injured. Moving into the tournament season they won the N.I.C. meet and won sectionals. They took second at regionals which helped them through to semi-state. At semi-state they took fourth, landing them a position to compete in the State meet. The girls ended their season taking 18th at the state meet, with Madison Woods finishing 21st and Lauren Pottschmidt 30th. Coach Tom Miller was very pleased with their season. "Making it to the state meet in Indiana is very hard. I'm very proud of the girls," said Miller. "Making it down there a second year in a row is very impressive. They got to show that they are tough and always ready to run no matter what day."

The Lady Kingsmen gave it their all during the Sectional meet. Coming in first place overall, the girls got the fourth year in a row victory for the Kingsmen. With the big victory, the Lady Kingsmen advanced to the next meet.

Tiffany Fuller, 12, Danielle Fahey, 12, and Hannah Theriault, 11, run their home course at Meadows Edge Elementary School.

"This season was a rebuilding season for me. Coming back from an injury is never easy and the NIC meet showed me that it was all worth it; the team was back and ready to compete." - Jenn Priebe, 12

Each week the seniors would pick one day where the boys and girls team would all wear bandanas. "It was an experience that helped show the freshmen to see that cross country is fun." - Danielle Fahey, 12

Before every race, the girls joined hands in prayer, asking for strength that would help not just themselves individually, but the whole team throughout the race.

TEE TIME

The Penn Girls' Golf team ended their incredible season with a fourth place finish in the IHSAA State Finals. Penn's state team consisted of five juniors: Kari Bellville, Emily Song, Katie Willenbrink, Madison Chesnutt, and Audrey Henderson. In the state tournament, the team played two separate rounds on an 18-Hole course with a total combination team score of 653. Throughout the season, the juniors were supported by a solid group of underclassmen. Coach Jim Garrett was proud of the girls and said their dedication to upholding the strong reputation of Penn golf made his job as coach very rewarding and successful. To play at the elite level the girls do, the sport requires year round practice.

The 2012 team accepted their fourth place medals.

Katie Willenbrink, 11

"Over all, my season went pretty well. I enjoyed going to all of the tournaments, and getting to know my teammates. We became good friends." - Allison Rowe, 9

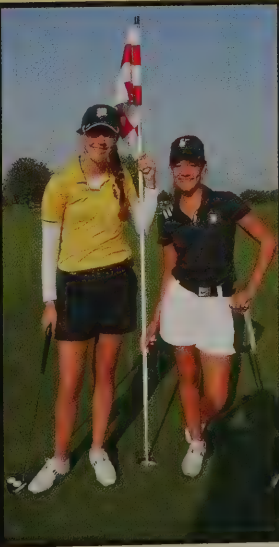

Lucy Bowers, 10, stepped off course for a moment to receive guidance from Coach Garrett. The Penn golfers all agree that no coach in the area knows more about the rules of the game.

The team placed first in the Regionals tournament with a score of 323. Penn finished 15 strokes ahead of the second place team.

SEE IT. BELIEVE IT. EXECUTE IT.

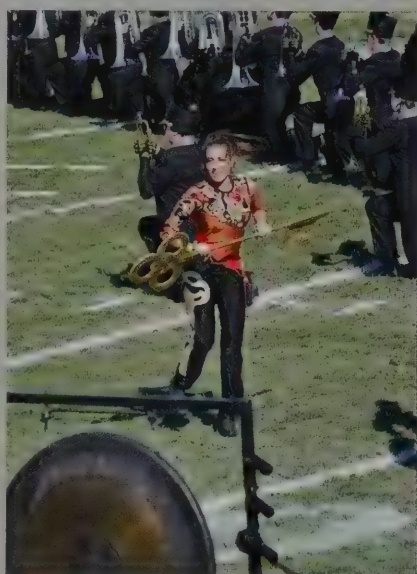

Kari Bellville, 11, has verbally committed to play golf at the University of Notre Dame in the fall of 2014. Bellville was named to the All-State team this season. The quote, "See it. Believe it. Execute it," motivates her on the course.

Flying High

"Color Guard is so exciting! Coming into Color Guard I didn't have many friends, but now these girls are my best friends," senior Taylor O'Neal said.

"Being a senior I've had so many great memories, but I loved it when we won state for Winter Guard in 2011," said senior Jade Centilli.

Seniors

Cassidy Disselberger, 12, said, "Going to California and seeing TV reporters and a red carpet is something I would've never experienced. It was great."

Color Guard is usually the first to walk out on the field, with great smiles, bright uniforms, and soaring flags, getting the crowd excited for the halftime show.

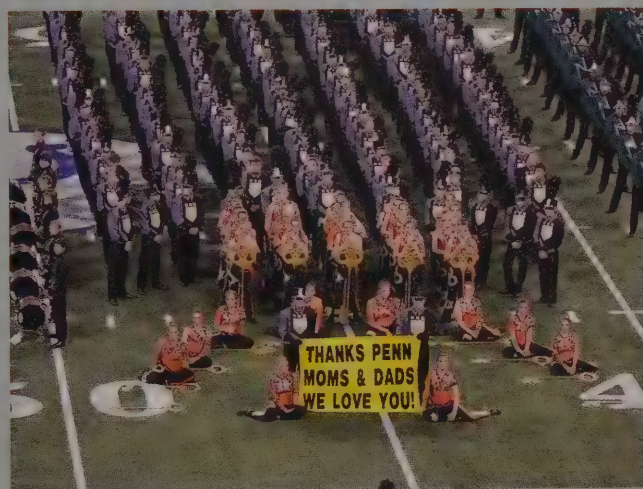

"I loved meeting upperclassmen! It was nice to know them my freshmen year and I loved how they got to represent Indiana in California. It was exciting," said Jordan Mosser, 9.

The Color Guard along with the Marching Kingsmen got to go to California in November and perform in an amazing parade.

Abel, 10, said, "I loved going with a great group of girls; we all ended up being like sisters."

Emily Kramer, 10, enjoyed her year in Color Guard and made lots of memories along the way.

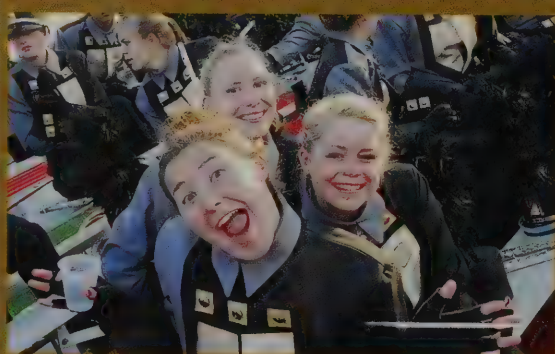

Here Come the Marching Kingsmen!

Helen Flynn, 10, got a quick break to smile for a photo before playing her saxophone.

The show this year was called UNLOCKED. In state, the Marching Kingsmen earned a ninth place finish.

Marching band is serious business, yet there is time for goofiness, too.

The trumpet line played before the team ran out. The song was about happiness, for their "Unlocked" themed competition.

"It's not about the points or placing, it's just fun to compete," said Duncan Heidkamp, 11, about his experience at state. "Marching Band is such a great way to make friends and keep them through high school," Josh Hoeft, 10, said about being on drumline. Morgan Smith, 10, who played flute agrees, "You end up being really close!"

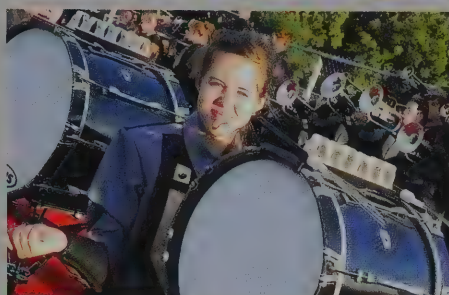

The drum majors lead out the the band:
Duncan Heidkamp, 11, Alex Beagles, 11, Andrea
Vidaghs, 12, and Austin Hollett, 12.

Kenton Leidy, 12, joined in with the rest of the band. He had his instrument out and ready to play for his last year as a Marching Kingsmen. The band went to California for a parade in November.

Katie Tornquist, 10, was the only girl on drumline. "The guys may tease me and be goofy, but if I could choose who to spend my time with, it would be the guys!" she said.

Seniors Amanda Schori and Amanda Megyese enjoyed being a Marching Kingsmen. "Being a senior was really fun. It's exciting to know I get to start my life. I also liked helping the freshmen enjoy their four years to come," Megyese said.

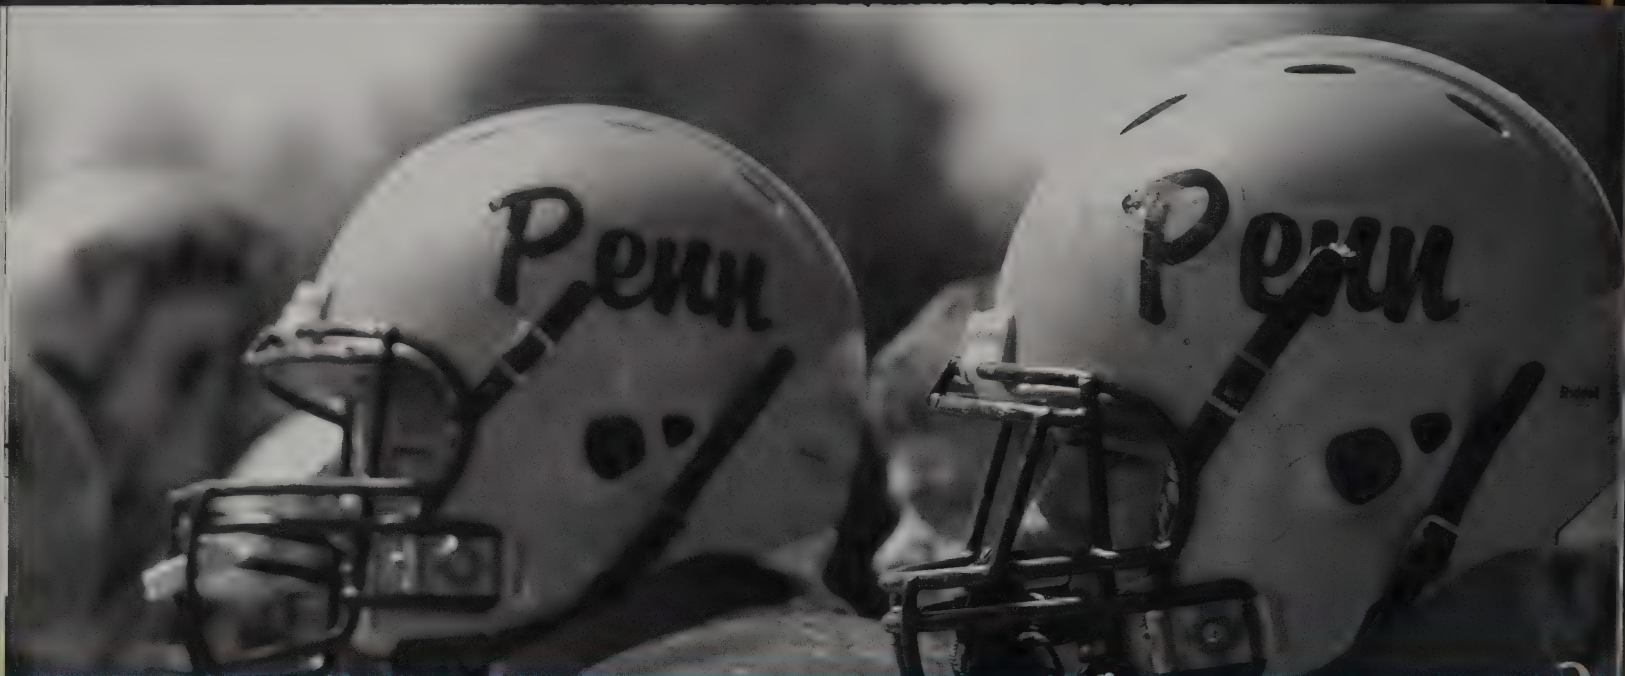

Kirsten Wuthrich, 12, played the mellophone. She said her best moment was "knowing that after four years my hard work has paid off!" All the seniors can say it's been an amazing four years!

The drumline started off the band and got the student section ready for the game. The Marching Kingsmen followed, hearing the cheers of their classmates.

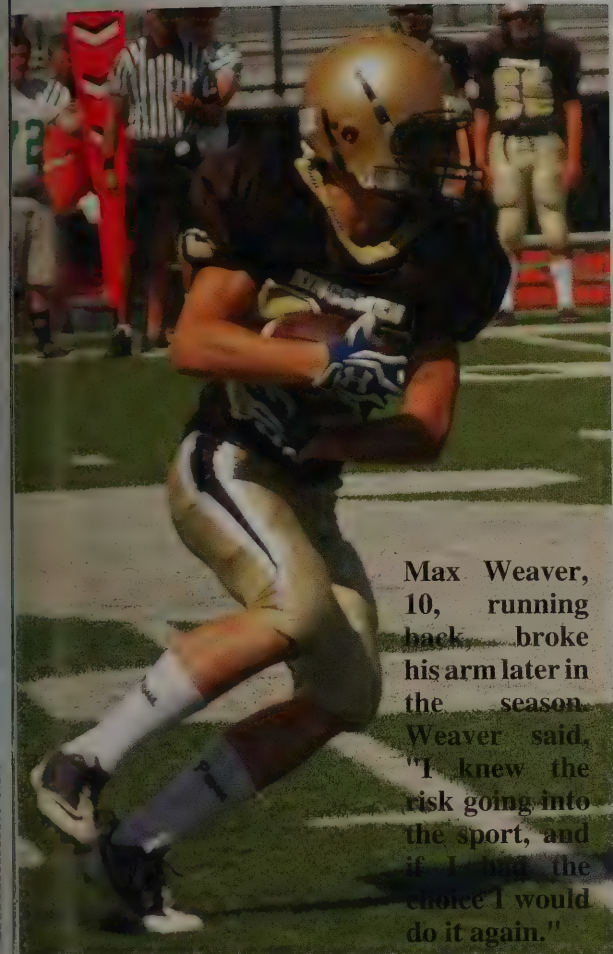

Dominance

Conditioning and long practices helped the the junior varsity and freshman teams to season of dominance. Getting in shape for the season, practicing every day after school, and playing in front of small crowds were all things that the freshman/JV teams faced. When asked why he does it, Shawn Lamb, 9, said, "I know that if I work now that within the next couple years I will have a chance to play varsity." The freshman team had another dominating season, only losing one game to St. Joseph in the final seconds giving them a final record of 9-1. The JV team had a great season. With the help of coaches Dave Manspeaker and Brian Griman, they finished with an undefeated record and won the Northern Indiana Conference. Winning the NIC is the highest achievement that the JV team can accomplish in their season because there is no state playoffs. Penn football has a long tradition of winning. The Kingsmen have had a total of five state runner ups and five state championships, and they all began on the JV field.

The Penn offensive line got down in a three point stance and got ready for the next play. A three point stance is when the player has one hand on the ground and the other to his side getting ready to block. The line does this because the lower they are, the more power they get to drive the other player back.

Max Weaver, 10, running back, broke his arm later in the season. Weaver said, "I knew the risk going into the sport, and if I had the choice I would do it again."

The freshman team, Gold Rush, took to the field. When running back, Cedric Vakalahi, was asked what was his favorite part of football he answered, "The friendship it makes."

"The Penn JV squad finished their season with a record of 9-0. We had a good year, thanks to our coaches," said Luke Walker, 10.

The Penn offensive line gave great blocks to help the run. The linemen on a football team are often the hardest working and receive the least amount of glory because they don't touch the ball.

Competition Toe to Toe

ate Ohlson, 11, sets up in the shotgun offense. Penn is a n-dominant team. No one in e area can seem to stop it. Ohlson said, "We had a great ear--we had a lot of people ep up on the team and be aders."

Joseph Boone, 10, backpedalled to stay on top of his receiver. When a player backpedals, he takes short, quick steps backward. When asked about his position, Boone said, "Being a defensive back is one of the toughest positions because if you don't do it right the other team will most likely score." This was Boone's second season with the Kingsmen football team.

The JV team took a knee at half time. Taking a knee is when players get down on one knee and listen to what the coaches are saying, usually at half time or at the end of a practice. The Penn football program has a great tradition of not cutting any one from the freshman team as long as they show up to every practice and work hard.

we can't hide our pride

The JV and freshman cheer teams were made up of a very talented group of cheerleaders. Each week cheering on the Penn football teams was something each girl looked forward to. As she reminisced on the season, junior varsity cheer coach Kristen Reynolds said, "It was a memorable season." The girls cheered on their team to an undefeated season record of 7-0. The JV cheerleaders also helped the varsity cheer team by cheering along with them at Friday night football games. Sophomore Shayna Berg said, "Being on this team was a privilege." The freshmen cheerleaders were led by Coach Christine Kruk. Freshman Caitlin Brady said being on a team is "like having sixteen other sisters that you are supportive of and always there for." The freshman cheer team was very close and used their spirited personalities to cheer the freshman football team to a record of 8-7.

Peyton Paul, 70, took a break at a varsity football game. Paul said the best part of Friday night games was, "being able to be on the track looking up and cheering in front of a lot of parents and students."

The freshman cheer team huddled up during one of their games. For freshman Maddie Hendershot, the most memorable moment of the season was, "Meeting new people and having them become some of my closest friends." The team shared a close bond throughout their season.

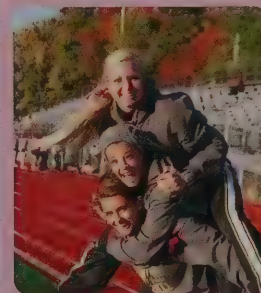

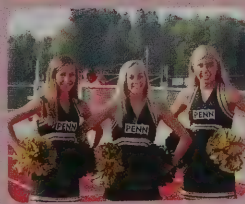

Juniors Riley Colley, Kaitlyn Levan, Mcki Kistler, and Kinzie Duley wore scarves and vests at a chilly JV game. The juniors helped to lead the JV team. Kistler said the best part of Friday night football games was "how many people attend the games."

Alyssa Quinlan and Laikyne Ellsworth, 70, performed arabesques to the crowd between quarters of a game. The JV team cheered "Wild Bunch, Gold Rush" to pump up the crowd. Ally Vavul, 9, went up in a one man stunt at a freshman game. Peyton Paul, Peyton Jaques, and Kara Laidig jumped on each others' backs and posed for a picture at a JV game.

ONE TEAM, ONE GOAL

The junior varsity boys' soccer season showed continuous improvement. The boys put in many long hours, striving to be the best. These boys were truly dedicated to the sport. They attended conditionings, practices in 100 degree weather, and summer workouts. "The 2012 JV team was a young side that matured over the course of the season. By the end, we were very smart and dangerous group," said Head Coach, Tim Minzey.

These boys are my brothers and my second family. Through thick and thin, wins and losses, we still were together as one team, and I couldn't have asked for a better one." Chase Putrich, 10

The Season of the Sisterhood

Freshman Nicole Kaczynski stated, "The season was really fun! I made a lot of new friends and got to enjoy playing the sport that I love. I am so excited for the next few seasons with my sisters!"

Bus rides were said to be the source of a lot of fun memories for the team, even shown with the group of freshmen in this picture. It gave the team to a chance to really get to know each other. Freshman Mikaylah Woods said, "Bus rides were a bonding experience and fun before games. Long rides gave us a lot of time to get to know each other and relax before our tournaments."

Penn Soccer is not just a team of girls, it is a sisterhood. The girls become so close and spend so much time together it's hard not to love one another. Lindsay Chrise, 9, said, "It felt great to be a part of such an amazing family. I came into Penn Soccer thinking I would make new friends, not leave with lifelong sisters."

After a well fought 2-0 victory in the rain against Lake Central, the team decided to have some fun and take a picture in the rain. With this being their second to last game of the season, they were cherishing every moment they had together until the end of their fantastic season.

Freshman Emma Baker, sophomore Brianna Hart, and junior Nora Dixon stood before practice showing off their outrageous outfits on crazy dress up day. Junior Nora Dixon said, "It has been a tradition for years, the upperclassmen always set a precedent for the costumes, but this year a lot of people went all out and came up with some creative outfits!"

// Penn JV Soccer

Coaches Will Baker and Elyse Powell led the team to a 15-1 record this season. The team worked incredibly hard all year and now have the record to prove it.

Goal Keepers

Sophomore keeper Lauren Nowakowski, and freshman goalies, Hannah Michael, and Camryn Buhr, are shown in action in the above pictures. With only 6 goals scored on them throughout the whole season you can tell they trained hard and were an asset to the team. Michael stated: "...whenever I got a chance to save a goal, it was really exhilarating and rewarding. I felt like I was helping my team."

Freshman Volleyball

Summer conditioning, weekend tournaments, and weekly games and practices showed the dedication it took to be on the Penn volleyball team. The girls gave a lot of time and effort to the sport they love. Coming from three different middle schools and three different teams was an adjustment, but you could tell on and off the court this team really connected. Freshman Abbie Russell said about her teammates, "Our team became very close and we learned to really work together. It was great coming to my first day of high school and having a great group of friends to hang out with."

During the 2012 season the freshman team really brought their A game. They played their best game against Elkhart Central at Penn. Freshman Ashley Mensik said, "This was the most memorable moment of the season. Everyone played the best game of their season." They ended the season with an impressive 26-6 record.

The freshman team posed for a team picture at a Saturday tournament at Penn. Freshman Jessica Stratford said about their weekend tournaments, "They are a day to hang out with teammates and do the thing we love."

"Over the year you gain a lot of friendships and become really close with the people you play with—we were all definitely very close friends and I loved playing with them," said Katelyn Crothers as the girls got ready to sell "Kick a Field Goal" tickets, before the football game Friday night.

On and off the court the girls showed dedication and respect, but most importantly, good sportsmanship. There were many good leaders on the team, and overall, good role models. They represented Penn High School well.

JV Volleyball

Summer workouts, hard practices, tournaments, and weekly games all showed the hard work put into playing for Penn Volleyball. The girls of the JV volleyball team all had much dedication through out the season. Christine Cunningham, 10, said, "To get better you have to go to practice every day, and work hard. But mostly you have to want to make yourself better." Playing volleyball isn't easy, but they had their teammates for support each and everyday. This year, the JV had many freshmen and new players on the team. But they were inseparable by the end of the season. Lauren Schwindaman, 10, said, "My experience as a first year player was great. I met such nice girls that are like my sisters, and great coaches. I learned a lot and I'm so glad I was able to be apart of Penn volleyball."

Girls' Powder Puff

The powderpuff game is a Penn tradition. Each year, during the week of homecoming, all grades come together to battle it out on the field. In the first game, the juniors took on the freshmen. The freshmen came out on top. Next was seniors vs. sophomores. For the first time in six years, the seniors lost their first game with a score of 7 to 0.

SENIORS

Throughout the course of the short powderpuff season, the seniors were faced with a dilemma; barely enough girls signed up to even make up an entire squad. However, with teamwork and dedication, these seniors worked hard every practice to learn both offensive and defensive plays. In the end, the seniors didn't come up on top like they had hoped, but they had a great last year of powderpuff football and looked great while doing it.

JUNIORS

The juniors came into the powderpuff game with confidence. They played a rough game against the freshmen. Hayley Derby scored two touchdowns for the juniors, but that was not enough. The juniors lost their game, not getting the chance to play in the final round. Although they were devastated, the juniors were already talking about what they could do differently for next season when they will return as seniors.

SOPHOMORES

The sophomores came into the powderpuff season with high hopes. They knew that they could break the tradition and defeat the seniors, and they did. The sophomores played a rough game and showed their true colors on Freed Field. Although they only scored one touchdown, that was all they needed. The sophomores won the game against the seniors with a score of 6 to 0.

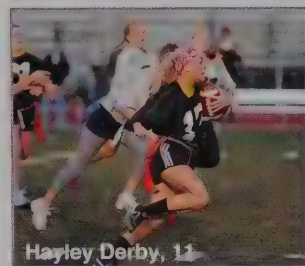

FRESHMEN

The freshmen were intimidated to play powderpuff. The freshmen had to face the juniors in the first game of the night. When the juniors scored the first touchdown, that gave the freshmen motivation to play as hard as they could. They ended up coming on top. Both the freshmen and junior teams scored two touchdowns, leading them into overtime. The freshmen scored in overtime and won the game, winning by only one point.

Homecoming

It's always a tradition

"My favorite day was toga day because I waited three years to wear one and it felt awesome!"

Katie Davis, 12

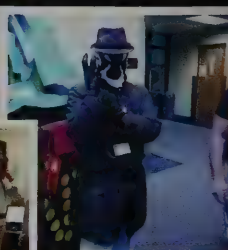

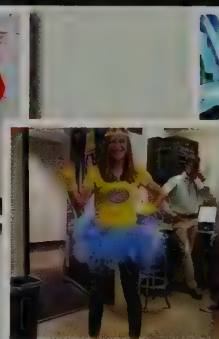

"My favorite part of the night was standing with the court in front of the thousands of people watching the game. Everyone was really supportive and loud."

Bailey O'Malley, 12

David Wakim, 9

"My favorite day of spirit week was superhero day because people were dressed funny. The pep rally was really fun because I almost fell off of the back of the bleachers. If I could pick a spirit day for next year I would do a classical day where everyone would wear formal dresses and tuxedos."

Domenick Mazzocchi, 9

SENIOR boys went all out (literally) on toga day. This is a tradition that is looked forward to since freshman year. The underclassmen all dressed up as nerds while toga day happened. That monday, the school was filled with superheroes and villains. Pajama day was the most relaxing day of spirit week as the students all dressed in comfortable, warm clothing.

Homecoming King and Queen

Kourtney Sappenfield, 12

Seth Rassi, 12

Madison Parker, 12

Seth Rassi and Madison Parker were crowned king and queen of homecoming court at halftime underneath the Friday night lights.

"My favorite part of the night was standing with the other contestants, listening to how much they have accomplished and their goals for the future. All of the nominees have major plans for the next few years. It hit me how we high school had prepared us for our lives to come."

-Madison Parker, 12

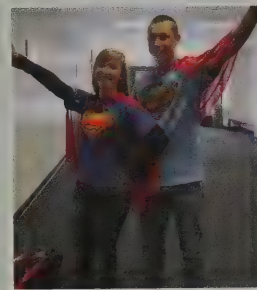

"Seeing people dressed up was my favorite part of homecoming week because I thought it was Halloween." Alex Almaguer, 9

Ben Collier, 10

"Nerd day was my favorite day because it was fun. The school spirit was my best memory from homecoming week."

Hailey Stoddard, 10

"Making super hero capes was my favorite part of homecoming. I had a lot of fun the whole week dressing up for my senior year."

Lexus Gohn, 12

Some students couldn't help but fall asleep on pajama day from being so cozy.

Neon day is a great way for students to show off their bright and creative personalities.

"Seeing a man in 4-inch heels was the most interesting part of homecoming week."

James Wroblewski, 11

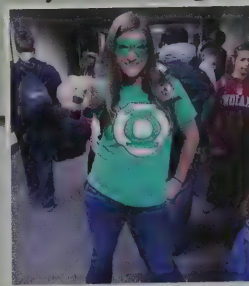

"It was very satisfying to wear a toga for senior year. My favorite day was toga day because it put me more in touch with myself."

Makary Debicki, 12

"Batman is too legit to quit."

AND HANDED IN HIS CHECKS
ON THE 7TH DECEMBER, 1850."

Sparks flew between Jacob Klinger, 12, and Lydia Coppedge, 12, as their characters John Oakhurst and Duchess danced around their feelings. When caught in a blizzard with no provisions, John sacrificed himself for her in the most gentlemanly way.

"Nothing to do but fix a bourbon and coke."

Jacob Klinger, 12, took the stage as John Oakhurst in The Outcasts of Poker Flats. Respect flowed from the other characters as he commanded the stage. Oakhurst was a gambler, and other characters were also "outcasts," such as Duchess and Mother Shipton, prostitutes, and Uncle Billy, a thief and a drunkard.

Alexandria Sadowski, 12, poured her heart out as Elizabeth Caulder in Laundry and Bourbon. Hattie Dealing, played by Mary-Grace Ahearn, 10, whirled in like a tornado filled with sass and spunk being great support to her friend in need. These two were a dynamic duo and kept the audience hanging on their words.

Mary-Grace Ahearn, 10, threw herself into character Hattie Dealing, showing all the griefs and pains of having three young children in a humorous way. Alexandria Sadowski, 12, looked into the sunset, trying not to reveal her broken heart about her husband's infidelity to her clamorous best friend, Hattie.

Three's the Magic Number

Alienna Worthen, 10, and Michael Litteral, 11, did a spectacular job in What Did You Say What For? Though in the play they had no names other than "man" and "woman," but these actors brought life to their characters in an invigorating way. Wearing a mink stole and chopsticks in her hair, Worthen confused Litteral, hitting with a newspaper and ending with a kiss.

David Dutton, director, did a fabulous job of directing and producing three short plays. When asked to elaborate, he responded with, "I chose to do three one-acts because it allowed me to utilize more students than many of the full length plays that I was considering." In one night his actors transported the audience through time, starting in the ol' west during The Outcasts of Poker Flat, soaring down and providing laughter in What Did You Say What For? and ending with the funny and edgy Laundry and Bourbon.

As the snow piles higher around the cabin, the cast of Outcasts of Poker Flat decide how to proceed without much food or blankets.

In the Spotlight

"I'm generally awkward as a person and I play generally awkward characters so that helps."

Jacob Kramer, 11

"I relate myself to my characters by comparing the characters' responses to my personal responses of the scene or event. I portray the inner feelings of the character/myself through acting."

Dominic Oletti, 11

"Honestly, my character is a complete country club snob which I can't personally relate to at all! However, to put myself in the 'Amy Lee' mood, I just had to pretend that I was that stuck up lady who causes havoc and creates all sort of trouble; acting is pretending, after all."

Anna Carpenter, 10

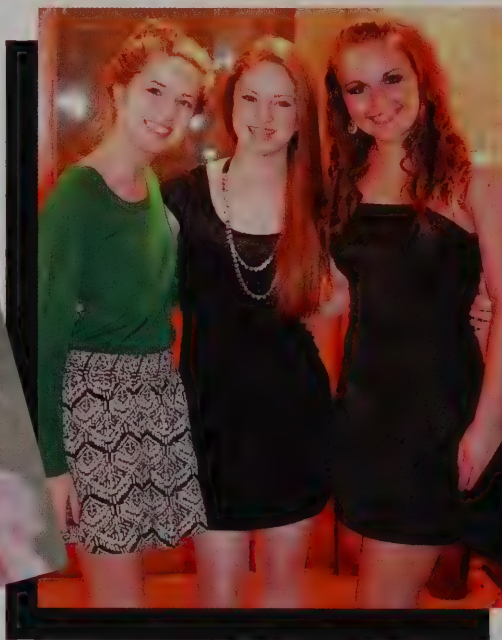

"I always just try to put myself in the mindset of my character."

Audrey Dixon, 10

How technology in the 21st century affects how we learn, and how we live...

By constantly sharing with the world the events and happenings of everyday life, it's easy for students to become self conscious of what they have to say, or critical of what others say online. There are definitely pros and cons to social media, and the constant connectivity we have with the world can be distracting, but also beneficial. The innovation of sites like Twitter and Facebook allow people to build a knowledge through online information they never could have before. At Penn, Twitter accounts like @PennLove, @PennTruth and others like it have started a trend for online anonymity. These accounts are made by students complimenting and praising other students by simply tagging them in a tweet without giving away their own identity. Because the accounts are exclusive to Penn pupils, they bring students together who otherwise wouldn't have known each other. Other advantages of social media are Facebook groups made for clubs and sports where students and even their parents can share photos and information with other members. Students are accessing homework updates and study tools like flash cards, staying up to date on their grades on HAC, and are able to email teachers from anywhere in the building with Penn's Wifi. Technology is accessible for our Kingsmen in ways it hasn't been with past generations, revolutionizing the way students learn, and how they experience high school.

Why do you get on Facebook? What are your top 3 social networking apps? If you don't use apps like Facebook, Twitter or Instagram, why not?

In the past two years, the app Instagram made its appearance on the home screen of almost every Penn student's smartphone. A photo-sharing app, Instagram allows students to share pictures of their everyday life with their followers and edit the colors and tones in the photos. Students shared pictures from school events such as lunch, sporting events and spirit days. As the saying goes, a picture is worth a thousand words. Students also posted pictures of themselves, affectionately called "selfies", and, taking pride in their sense of style, tagged these photos with #ootd or "outfit of the day". It was typical to see a photo of someone's meal, their daily Starbucks coffee cup, their most recent purchase, or even piles of books to personify their frustration with classwork. Regardless of what they shared, Kingsman used Instagram to connect with their friends. The sometimes overuse of the app led to the phrase "If you didn't take a picture of it and Instagram it, did it really even happen?"

South Bend comes alive for the national championship

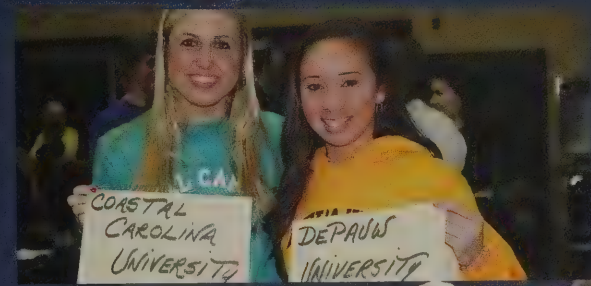

With the Penn district's proximity to the university, It's safe to say the majority of Penn students were rooting for the Notre Dame Irish in the National Championship January 7. Whether they were cheering for old Notre Dame or supporting the Crimson Tide, Penn students tuned in that Monday night at 8:30 to watch the game and root for their team. Seniors Jenna Huddleston, JT Schwartz and Michaela Crawford traveled to Miami, scoring tickets for the game. Senora Becky Lutkus was there, snapping a picture with the Florida Orange outside the stadium. Overall cost to attend the game was estimated at a staggering $2000 per person, but for diehard Irish fans, it was a price they were willing to pay to watch their team battle 'bama. Whether they were watching live from the Florida stadium, or from their living room, the anticipation was almost tangible. Senior Brady Decker was decked out in his calculus class that day in a leprechaun hat, jersey, and even one of Jimmy Clausen's old arm bands. In the end the Irish lost, but senior Jenna Huddleston says she "came away with a great experience despite the loss," and "hopes to see another season like this one."

PENN CLUBS "DECA" the halls & show their support

PENN'S DECA CLUB took the initiative to spread holiday cheer with their "DECA" the halls" decor in the commons. Decorations included the Kingsman clad in a paper suit and tie, reminiscent of many of Penn's DECA members on their dress up days. Penn's Yearbook staff decided to follow in DECA's example and decorated the Kingsmen in a faux Notre Dame football uniform in honor of former Penn student Braxton Cave in the week before the National Championship.

SA SHARKEY, SENIOR, was honored with the Siemens Awards for Advanced Placement, awarded each year only to students with the greatest number of scores of 5 on eight AP math and science exams. Only one boy and one girl are awarded each year from each state. Sharkey representing Indiana and Penn.

That magical time of year crept up on Penn's students once again . . .

the first sticking snowfall appearing on the morning of December 11. With the clock ticking down to the fabled "end of the world" on December 21, students made the most of their supposed last days on earth by donning their basketball jerseys and getting creative with new themes in the student section and by resurrecting those ugly Christmas sweaters in preparation for the holidays. Winter sports fanatics may have rejoiced about all the the snow, but for the rest of us just facing the hike in from the parking lot was a struggle. "From one to hiking the Himalayas how much fun is this trek about to be from church to door D tomorrow morning?" asked senior Alex Polston. The guys broke out their winter jackets and ladies were warned to wrap those infinity scarves tight! That walk from church to door A was even more brutal. Students had more than snow and cold weather to worry about; they got down to business with the hustle and bustle of first semester's finals, all the while keeping their fingers crossed that superintendent Thacker would call for a snow day. Once winter break finally arrived, every Kingsman breathed a sigh of relief. Students juggled part time jobs and extra-curriculars, and with the holidays right around the corner, anticipated the arrival of Christmas, New Year's, the College National Championship, Snowball, the Super Bowl and Valentines Day. With a busy schedule ahead of them, Penn's pupils prepared for another semester as a Kingsman, some of them their last.

Big Brothers Big Sisters (BBBS) is an organization where Penn students go to elementary schools to spend time with a little sister or little brother they are given. The Penn students go once a week to either Bittersweet Elementary or Elm Road Elementary during block 1 study hall. This organization is a great way to help mentor young students and give them an extra friend. Kelsey Wager stated, "I've been involved in BBBS for two years and I enjoy the program because of my little and that I knew I was making a difference in their lives." The Big Brother Big Sister program is a rewarding experience.

Executive Mentors

~ Freshmen ~ MENTORS

When the new freshmen arrive to classes on the first day of high school, many of them are nervous and overwhelmed with the size of the school and the amount of people. In order to cope with this new transition, freshmen guidance counselors Marni Cronk and Madeline Watkins created a program to help. Sophomores through seniors take time out of their study halls to play games and talk about activities they are participating in, along with bringing yummy treats to share. The program allows freshmen to understand that someone is there to help when needed.

"National Honor Society challenges members to help others whenever, wherever and however possible. I loved working with all of the bright, hardworking and caring students this year!"
-Bailey O'Malley, 12

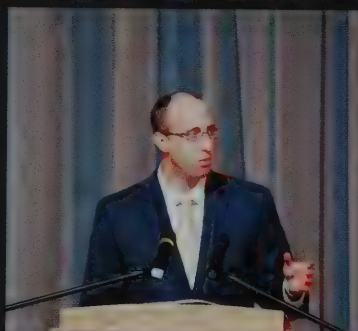

// Elizabeth Eaton, 12, painted a peace sign on the face of an elementary student at the Bittersweet Fun Fair in early May. Despite having all of her 40 service hours completed, Eaton decided to help out.

// Robert Brumbaugh, 12, woke up early on an October Saturday morning to help sort boxes of popcorn for the local Boy Scout Troops big fundraiser. Brumbaugh worked at all three popcorn events first semester.

// Haley Meekhof, 12, and Madelyn Lee, 12, spoke to the Fox 28 News Crew about an event they organized through NHS called Cookies for Kids Cancer. After school for two days students baked desserts in the foods classrooms which they then sold in the UIP mall in order to raise money for Pediatric Cancer Research. This year NHS raised over $1000 for the cause.

// Kate Mader, 12, treasurer and Public Relations Officer, invited School Board President Jamie Woods to speak at the Fall Induction. Over sixty new juniors were inducted into the National Honor Society and heard him speak about success and service.

// NHS members Kirsten Hoffman, Iolene Meyer, and Hannah Hestad, all 12, worked together to bake for Cookies for Kids Cancer.

Student Council

"Council has been one of the most challenging, yet rewarding experiences of my life! I will always keep the incredible people, events, and memories in my heart!" ~Eva Niklinska, Student Council President Council members got ready to empty the cans at the end of the annual food drive.

Every Fall, Student Council puts on a football homecoming, complete with a pep rally before the big game. The members get out of school early to set up to prepare.

Battle of the Bands, known as B.O.B., is an annual event that Council spearheads. This year the bands were Treading On Thin Ice, Painless Monday, Escape Route, and Drifting Away. Escape Route was the winner and its members were Ryan Taylor, Nathan Arndt, Roger Johnson, Andrew James Saylor, and Megan Stevens.

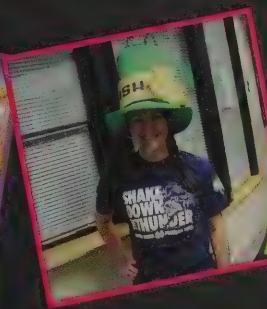

For the past two years Alexandra Smith, 11, and Alexandra Redden, 17, have planned Battle of the Bands together. Smith said, "I feel like Battle is a super important event at Penn because it gives students that aren't really involved in a lot of other things a chance to show off their skills. It appreciates and awards people that aren't usually recognized."

Members of Council hung up decorations for Splash Week, a new event this year that worked to spread happiness and acceptance around Penn. Eva Niklinska, featured at the right, organized this week long event.

FROZEN In Time

After switching the venue from the Penn cafeteria to the Main Arena to Granger Community Church just last year, administration emphasized guidelines in regards to appropriate conduct at the annual winter dance. "Face-to-Face, With Space" laid out the boundaries for Penn students, making it no secret about what style of dancing was acceptable, and what style wasn't. "It's a matter of safety," associate principal Sean Galiher said. An senior male who wished to remain anonymous said, "I don't want anyone doing it with my little sister." // Many claimed, "I'll do it (style of dancing commonly referred to as "grinding") anyway; I wanna get kicked out." The dance turned out to be a pleasant evening for all who attended, much like any other year before, but with more eye contact and respect for one's personal bubble. Naturally, the outspoken students of Penn High School had lots to say regarding the dance and its new rule; not all were unapproving, with rave reviews of this new policy and the 2013 dance itself.

SAY CHEESE!

It's the one part of snowball we all loved to hate. Anticipation grows as you last minute "you-tube" how to tie a tie, or maybe you were heavily sighing in relief that your dress actually zipped! Finally, you're ready for all the cheesy poses and bright flashes that are ultimately the kick off to long night of dancing and fun. Go on! Take a picture; it lasts longer.

"3...2...1...SMILE!"

With tables full of crazy sunglasses, goofy hats, and many other picture perfect props, students lined up outside the old fashioned photobooths. Best of all, the photo strips were free.

SHE SAID YES!

Even after rumors circulated that this year's Snowball would be a Sadie-Hawkin's style dance, tradition held its ground forcing the gentlemen of Penn High School to put their hearts out on the line yet again. While some attempts were more elaborate than others, many girls said it was the thought that mattered, reasoning their emphasis on how they were asked.

Sophomores Billy Doslak and Nate Miller interviewed senior Leo Svete in class about his basketball career. Doslak and Miller were members of the Kingsmen basketball team with Svete.

Junior Luke Kleppe interviewed Notre Dame women's basketball star Skylar Diggins. The newspaper staff visited the campus on a field trip in the fall.

Senior Leo Svete worked on a story on his trip he took to Italy over the summer of 2012. Seniors Blake Schneider and Michael Mason helped to edit.

Juniors Jon Koellner, Luke Kleppe, Zach Oakley, Clayton Stohler, and senior Blake Schneider sat ready for the Fighting Irish football press conference to begin at the University of Notre Dame. The students were given the opportunity to interview star players at the University during Notre Dame's 12-0 regular season.

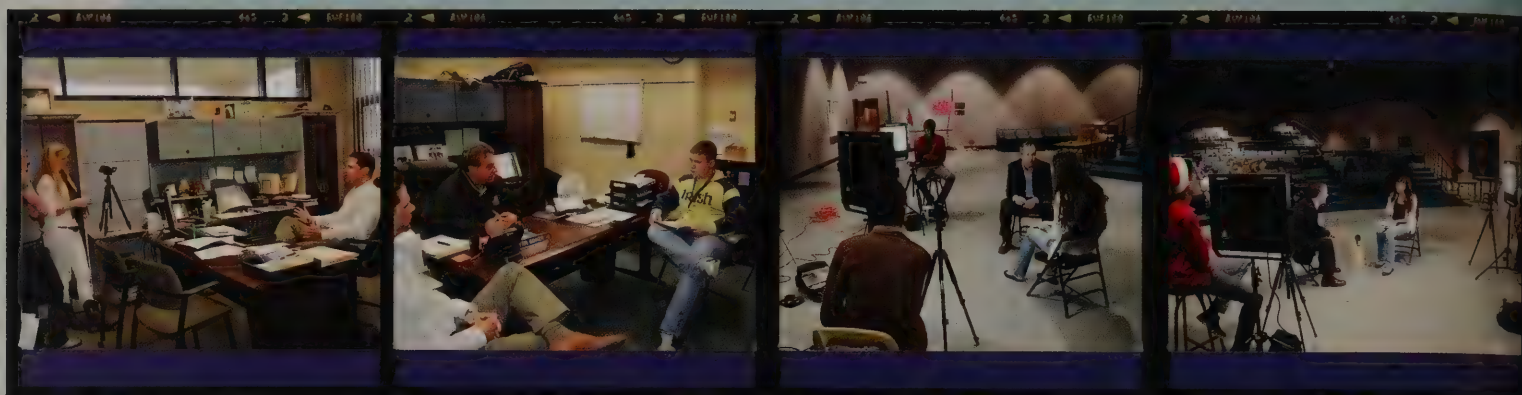

Senior Blake Schneider interviewed former Penn star and Notre Dame center Braxton Cave during media day at the University.

Juniors Kyle Kreiger, Annie Spalding, and Clay Kreiger worked on an interview assignment during the class period.

Senior Ian Fleming edited one of senior Trevor Manspeaker's stories for The Pennant. Students read each other's stories before they were published to the website.

Not just an "easy A"

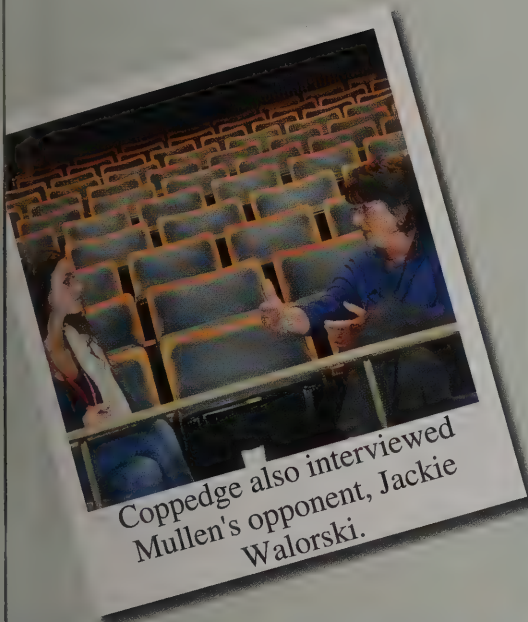

It takes a lot of effort to produce the Penn News Network (PNN). Teacher Kevin McNulty had his broadcast journalists not only write scripts and anchor, but also get interviews, edit "packages" and public service announcements, go on location, and re-write announcements into stories for their new website. No other class at Penn makes a product and presents it to over 3000 people 90 times a year.

At the beginning of the year, PNN's journalists were thrilled to learn that their teacher, Kevin McNulty, had made plans to improve the current studio by adding two new sets (including a green screen), a new anchor desk, and all new equipment. Staff worked hard all year to clean up their old studio, untangling massive cable balls, moving equipment, sorting everything into 8x10 lockers, and still produce a quality show. While the studio wasn't completely finished by the end of the year, next year's PNN staff is sure to have a good time getting to grips with the new equipment.

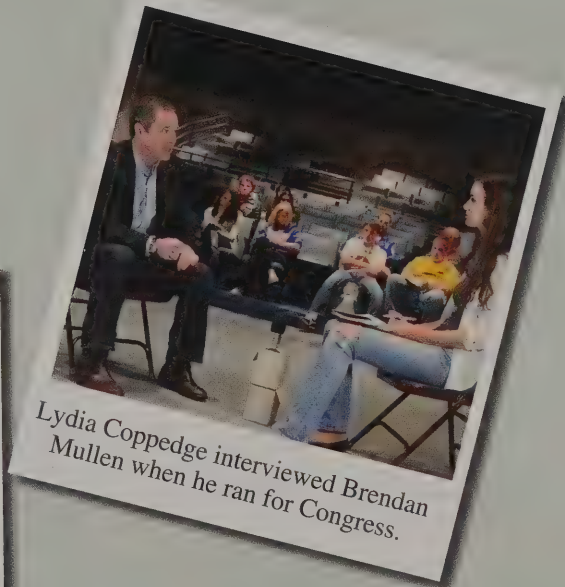

"We don't know how to put this, but we're kind of a big deal."

Lydia Coppedge interviewed Brendan Mullen when he ran for Congress.

Reporters Eileen Hassan, Lilly Sipocz, and Hannah Bedrick recruited future staffers at the PNN booth at the Freshman Open House.

Senior Adam Freitag worked hard (or hardly worked) in the PNN Newsroom, which is affectionately known as "The Bat Cave."

Couples Timothy Farr, senior, and Kalee Masterson, junior; Lauren McCarthy, sophomore, and Malik Oudghiri, sophomore; Jacob Kramer, senior, and Julia Gries, junior; and Broderick Balsley, freshman, and Leslie Bennet, junior cozied up on stage in the plays Play the Game, And So It Goes (Good 'ol '57), and A Slight Q & A. The plays addressed many aspects of love, whether on the brink of romance or deeply immersed.

Theatre shorts are Totally student directed, from auditions to curtain call.

Bailey Hayes, sophomore, and Alex Bruetman, freshman, were best friends in A Day In The Rain. Catherine was the main character played by Bruetman and had lost her father in a car accident during a storm years ago. Allie, played by Hayes, was her best friend and was with her to comfort her when she got scared by a storm. After seeing the ghost of Catherine's dead father, Allie runs screaming into the storm. Brilliantly performed and student written, it was an excellent sight to see.

The bang of the night, "Holy Musical B@man" was enjoyable to both the cast and the audience. Rhuley McIntire, senior, played Superman and was surrounded by his fangirls Audrey Dixon, sophomore, who was a reporter, Laura Harmon, junior, as the commissioner, Debarati Ghosh, senior, as The Riddler, Anna Ortega, sophomore, as Robin, Caitlin Jackson, junior, as Two-Face, and Maria Donati, senior, as a townspeople. No one got left behind and everyone was important in this musical turn on superheroes and their villains.

Penn's

Got Talent

Every year Penn puts on a talent show for students to show off what they got and do things they love. This year the talent show contained 18 acts and 33 students total. The acts ranged from original stand up comedy to duet vocal performances, and salsa dancing to tahitian dancing, and dubstep to Gangnam Style. An American sign language routine and wonderful solo acts also performed. Penn brought the competition. It's unanimous: Penn's got talent!

Roger Johnson played guitar, while Mary-Grace Ahearn showed off her vocals in this duet. "I enjoyed the talent show, it was really fun. I loved going on stage and I loved the song but I knew I couldn't hit the high notes, so I had Mary-Grace perform with me," Johnson said.

"Band has been something that makes me unique. I will always be a band geek at heart."

-Ally Marlow, senior

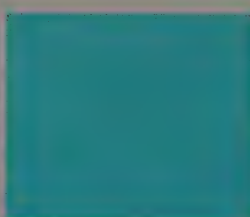

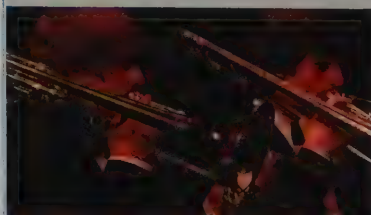

The Intermediate Freshmen, Advanced Freshmen, Concert Symphonic, Symphonic Winds, and both Intermediate and Advanced Jazz Bands performed at three annual concerts during the year.

Penn High School presented their annual concerts in the Center for the Performing Arts. The bands start the year off with the annual Kaleidoscope Concert followed by their Winter and Spring Concerts. For freshmen, nerves are present during their first year of performances, not knowing what to expect as a high school student. By the time a student is an upperclassmen, the procedures for the night are down pat. // The audience was easily intrigued by the different music choices among the groups. It was full of performances that got the feet of those family and friends in the audience moving along with the rhythms. Students spent hours preparing for those few moments on stage. They practiced during their scheduled band classes, study halls, and at dress rehearsals. The truly dedicated spent many nights repeating the measures of music at home to become as ready as possible for the big nights. // The bands were led by Glenn Northern, Chris Paulson, Bill Leather, and student-teacher Lisa Horst.

"A concert takes time, not only from an individual, but the whole band as well."

-Chase Weaver, sophomore

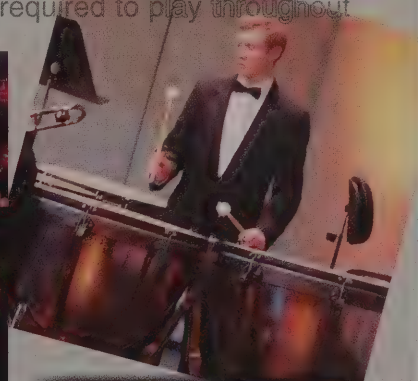

A Night Full of Solos

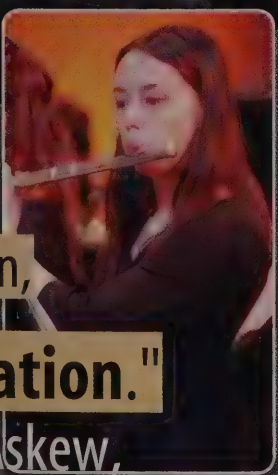

Adding excitement to the selections, the bands featured solos by those talented and brave enough to stand out on stage for a few moments. Senior Joel Doenges added pizzazz to the jazz performance with his piano-playing skills. Freshman Suzie Miley also played the piano during her Freshmen Intermediate band's time on stage. Seniors Gabby Singleton and Addy Culpepper showcased their talent as they sang along with the Advanced Jazz Band. Seniors Bobby Young played the contra-alto clarinet and Kristin Wuthrich played her French horn during the Symphonic Winds time on stage. The Concert Band is the group students enter into after their freshman year. A few of the many sophomore wind players featured were Gabe Silveus, Austin Corban and Bryce Defauw. Seniors Falcon Jefferson and Richard brought their energy during their Advanced Jazz performance caught the attention of the audience. Glenn Northern directed the Symphonic Winds, the band a student must audition for in the spring for the following school year. Jarrett Selis, a percussionist in the Intermediate Freshman Band, was featured here on one of the many instruments they are required to play throughout the year.

the Penn Orchestra

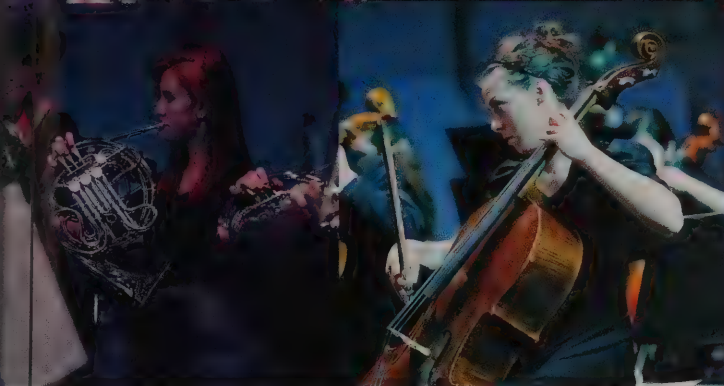

FILLING Penn's Center for Performing Arts with sounds inspired by overtures such as Hansel and Gretel, the Penn High School Orchestra impressed all in attendance. Talent was something they never fell short of; many members of the orchestra were also a part of The South Bend Youth Symphony Orchestra, the Fischhoff Chamber Music Mentoring, and the Indiana All-State Orchestra. As if that wasn't enough, four to five members of Penn's orchestra started their own harp program this year, setting the bar high for next year.

"The Penn Orchestra had another great year. The final concert of the year, titled "Orchestra Rocks," was a culmination of research, practice and a huge amount of extra effort. The audience not only saw and heard a 50 year history of rock music, but a display of some very fine Penn High School talent. The audience even enjoyed participating in a rousing rendition of "YMCA." The Penn Orchestra has seen fine leaders and players. All the best as they enjoy the years beyond Penn!"

The Penn Choir's Christmas concert on December 23 was a huge success. The program opened up with Evening Prayer performed by the Girls' Chorus. The program also included "I'm Getting Nuttin' for Christmas" by the singing Kingsmen and "Frosty the Snowman" by a combination of choirs with solos by Deonte Putnam and Abby Penland.

Penn Choir is the largest high school choir in the Michiana area, so whenever they put on a performance all eyes are on them as they set the bar for all other high school students in the area. Penn performs a total of five concerts a year.

The Penn Chamber Choir is the most prestigious. It requires at least two years of choir experience and a whole lot of talent and dedication. The Chamber Choir performed "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree" at the Penn Christmas concert.

Kyle Bartalone, 9, sang a solo in "Nuttin' for Christmas," a Penn tradition for the all male Singing Kingsmen.

The Penn Chamber Choir added difficulty to the performance by not only singing but dancing while doing it. Choreography was done by Jennifer Wolfe

Behind the scenes are some of the people setting the melody with instruments. The instrumentalists in the concert were Shelby Frick and Lauren Nidea on the keyboard, Hudson Huth playing the bass, and Camden Smith on the drums.

At the end of the concert the Penn choir sang three songs together as one combined choir. Despite the students having choir class at different times they put in the time before and after school to get this great performance done.

The Spell Bowl team scored a perfect 90 at their first match in East Noble and never looked back. The impressive varsity squad went undefeated in the regular season, won all six of their invitationals, won regionals, and went on to tie Martinsville for the State Championship with a perfect score of 90. There have only been about 47 total perfect scores ever achieved in Indiana Spell Bowl State History," remarked Penn coach Peter DeKever. Penn High School has more Spell Bowl state championships--12-- than any other school in the state of Indiana. At state, Leah Hershberger, Jenny Huang, and Austin Heckaman all broke the record for most words spelled correctly in varsity competition. "They represent what Penn's best students are capable of," DeKever said.

The team celebrated its first championship of the season at East Noble.

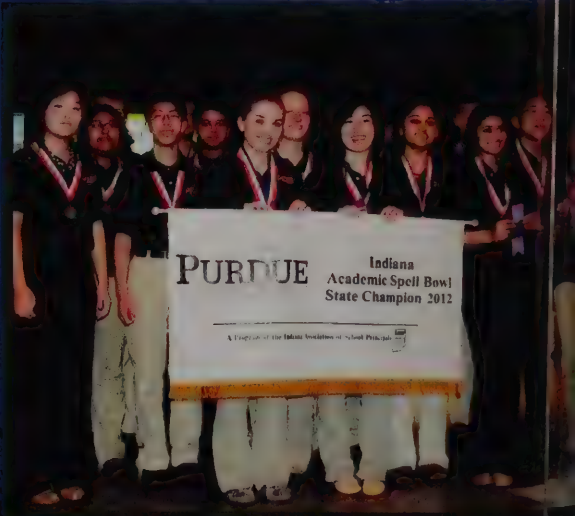

Penn also scored a perfect score of 90 at the Penn Invitational.

Penn won its 100th competition championship at Logansport.

Penn won its 15th consecutive regional championship.

Penn celebrates its state championship on stage at the Lost Playhouse in West Lafayette.

Austin Heckman, 12, and Jenny Huang, 12, finished their careers with 306 words spelled correctly in varsity competition, and Leah Hershberger, 12, finished with 305/306. All three broke the past record held by Christy Chag in 2011. Their records will not be broken for at least four years.

RECORD BREAKING CAPTAINS

"The part I will miss most about spell bowl is the people. The words, candy, and achievements were great, but it was the people who made spell bowl fun."

Austin Heckman, 12

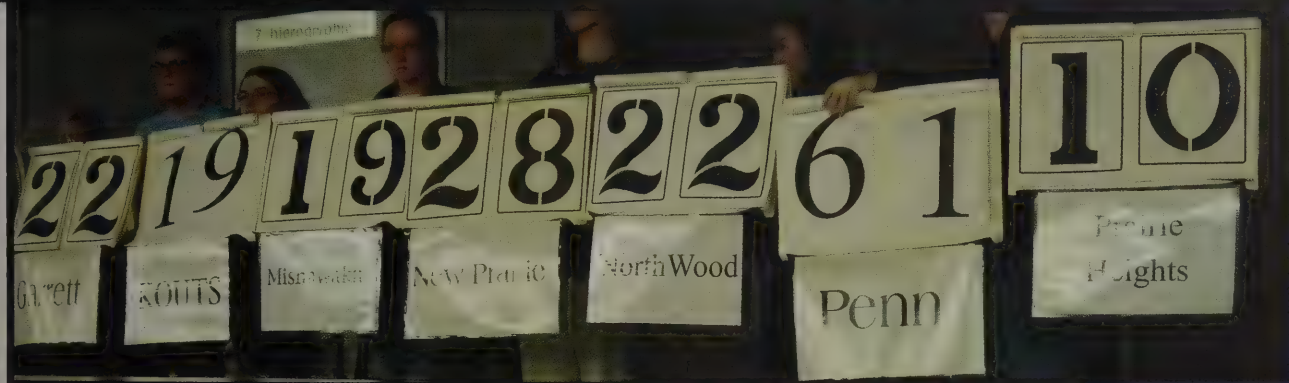

"All of the time spent with the incredible people on the team made senior year spell bowl fun and worth while."

Jenny Huang, 12

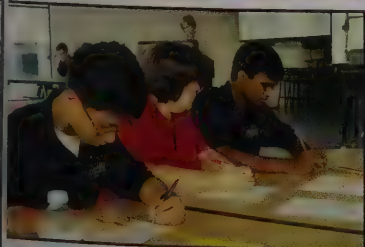

"Breaking the record was not only a big personal accomplishment and the culmination of my four years, but I got to do so with a great team and a wonderful coach!"

Leah Hershberger, 12

As the scoreboards above shows, Penn often dominated the competition.

This incredibly talented team proved the old saying, "PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT," to be true.

Chris Yun, 9, "truly exemplified the hard work we love to see in Social Studies ASB," said Ajith John, team captain. "His immense knowledge and love of history give me confidence in the team for years to come."

Bishop Jacob Meyer, a Social Studies ASB team alumnus, blessed the team before the meet at Fort Wayne Dwenger High School.

ACADEMIC COMPETITION

Penn's academic teams have earned more State Championships than any athletic team

Success was no stranger to the academic teams at Penn. Penn sent five teams to the Academic Super Bowl State Finals at Purdue University in May (the maximum number a school can send is five).

Social Studies won its fourth consecutive state title and 12th overall. They scored a perfect 25 points to win. The Interdisciplinary, Science and Math ASB teams were state runners up, and English placed third.

Social Studies coach Peter DeKever held 73 practices during the school year. When Social Studies captain, Ajith John, 12, was a freshman, he was the first in 12 years to compete in all 25 questions at state, and, this year, freshman Chris Yun repeated the performance. Junior Sarah McGinness will be team captain next year; of her, John said, "She was truly the linchpin of the team. Her relentless study of the essential concepts and the sources are a perfect model for what academic superbowlers aspire to."

d. Philo of Byzantium described "a syrinx played by the hands" as:

- a. kithara
- b. psaltery
- c. harpsichord
- d. hydraulis

Blake Dawson and Tyler Watts

Kaponi Vakalahi, 11, and Michael Vakalahi, 10

Chris Yun, 9, Ajith John, 12, and Chris Mitchell, 12, led Penn to its perfect score at State. The Social Studies ASB team won its 19th regional championship. Ajith John, 12, led the team review before the Warsaw Invitational.

Herculean love of learning

Ajith John, 12, displayed four fingers to represent each of his state championships. Coach Pete DeKever displayed the State Championship plaque outside the Loeb Playhouse on the Purdue campus.

John said, "I always like to say Mr. DeKever is the true captain of our team. His hard work and dedication to students is truly heroic."

Watershed moments

In her remarks at the reception, Emily Vetne, 9, observed that, typically, freshman year is fraught with difficulties. However, for her, the Social Studies ASB team became a family, and was the highlight of her life. "Mr. DeKever and Chris and Ajith became our mentors, and it's up to us now to fill that void that Chris and Ajith's leaving will create." "We like to say that ASB is a life-changing experience," said John. "Emily demonstrated the hard-working exuberance that makes that maxim a reality."

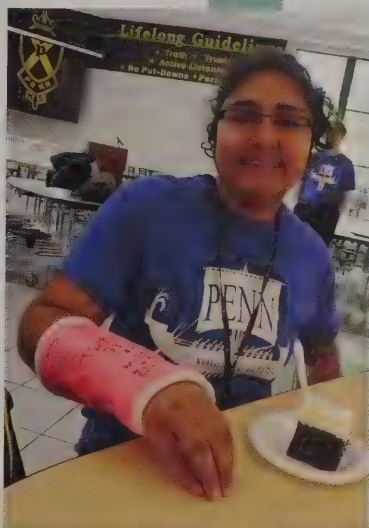

Emily Vetne, 9, Ajith John, 12, and Chris Mitchell, 12, raised their hands as a signal to the team that they answered a question correctly. Mitchell said, "Our goal this year was to get 27 out of 25. We were closer than ever."

Model United Nations "diplomats" work together to avert a world crisis. As world leaders, students must show proper decorum when discussing the issues.

Josie Gidman, 11, Rebecca Liu, 12, and Alexandra Koymman, 12, conferred about an answer. "Competition was fierce this year," said Koymman. "but throughout it all, Mrs. Rose was the primate of coaches."

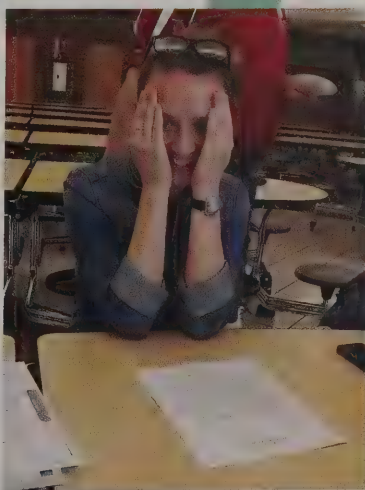

Model United Nations team members research their countries, topics and procedure before holding conferences. Little levity relieves the stress.

Substance & Style

Kanika Arora, 9, brought "constant enthusiasm and a smile to every practice," according to team captain Ajith John. More than half the team was freshmen and sophomores; "We see a very bright future ahead," said John.

The team t-shirt has "social studies" in Greek on the side of a trireme, an ancient warship. On the back is a Pericles' quote, "Present brilliance will become future glory when it is stored up everlastingly in the memory of mankind."

Humility & Perfection

Madison Strainis, 11, "possessed a great sense of humor," according to team captain John. "Her fervent love of history inspired us all."

At the reception, Mishawaka Mayor Dave Wood issued a proclamation declaring May 16, 2013, "Penn Social Studies Academic Super Bowl Day."

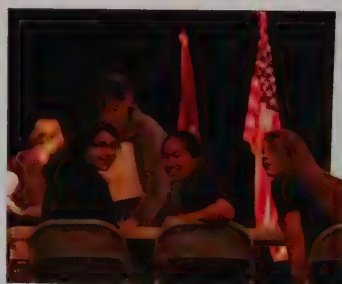

all the right answers

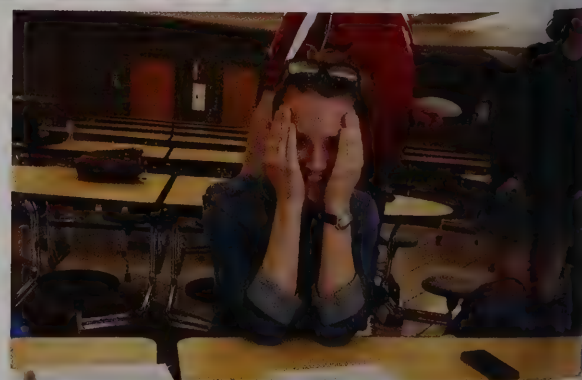

It's more than just question and answer, it's about carrying on a tradition of academic excellence outside the classroom.

Academic Super Bowl is more than just knowing things and answering questions. It is a lot of hard work. The players have certain topics that they have to research varying from world history and U.S. history. This year's topic was Greece. The teams had to discuss and memorize facts from books and articles they read in order to answer 25 question about the topic. During the competition, three members compete at a time and have 20 seconds to answer the question. // In contrast, Quiz Bowlers practice by reviewing retired questions, and often can confer with their other three teammates on the panel before answering a question. Quiz Bowl doesn't know what their questions will cover, whereas ASB can limit it somewhat to the year's theme. // ASB has a total of four competitions: two invitational, one regional, and one state.

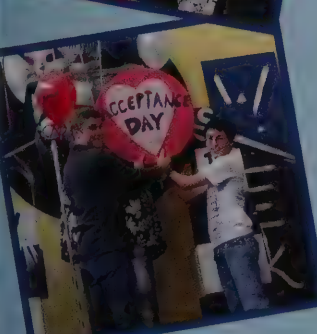

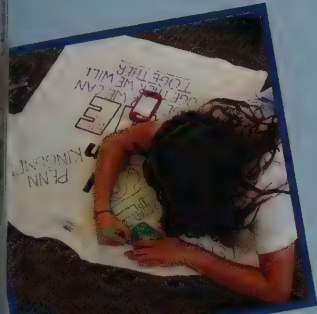

"I don't think about what's going on around me because it's not about me or anyone else for that matter. It's about the question in front of me, and the correct answer."

"trivial? never."

SPLASH

Week

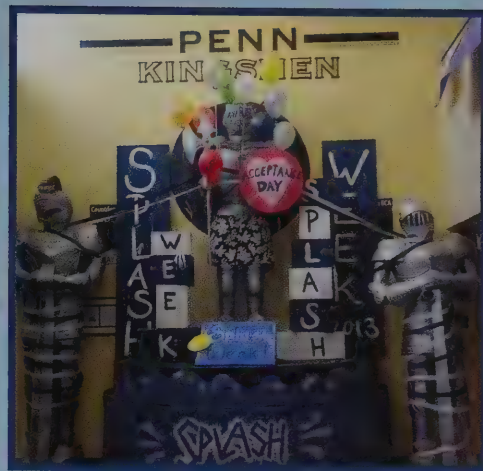

Wednesday was a popular day during SPLASH. Earlier in the week t-shirts were passed out to students around the school. The shirts said "I am ME" and everyone who received one decorated it to represent who they are. Everyone's creativity really shined through the shirts and were a great way to get to know each other better.

A yarn wall was set up during the week and students and staff were able to write things relating to SPLASH, inspirational quotes, or unique facts about themselves on notecards. These notecards were hung up on the wall for the rest of the school to see.

Splash Week was a big success not only because of the students and staff that participated, but also because of the student council president, Eva Niklinska, who did a great job organizing and promoting it. She said, "SPLASH is all about making a positive impact, about creating an environment that celebrates our differences and unites us in acceptance." This being the first year SPLASH was implemented, it was a huge success and plans to be done for years to come.

From all over the world, 11 exchange student spent an incredible year in Indiana. Far away from home, they had to adapt to their new life. Each of them loved America in different way. Trying to adapt yourself to face new people, new habits, new food, a new way of life, and new behaviors is the everyday life of an exchange student. Homesick? Yes, a little bit, but for all of them the kindness and happiness of Penn people made them smile again and over again.

FACULTY

After teaching in the Spanish department for 10 years, Kristen Riggs took on a new job at Hubbell Raco in South Bend. Sara Carrico took over for Riggs following Spring Break. Although students adjusted, it was a hard loss. The Spanish department lost other teachers at year's end, as Carrico decided to stay home with her children and veteran Christa Weesner retired. Then, right after school ended, Kara Petras moved when her husband was transferred. No me gusta!

Becky Lutkus

Like any vocation worth doing, teaching requires an extraordinary commitment of time, effort, and energy. Proficiency with language--as readers, writers, speakers, and thinkers--is the key academic and intellectual skill our school can help develop in students. It will directly determine the extent to which a student succeeds in school and in their chosen profession. Teachers can see progress in their students from draft to draft and throughout the year, but the true extent of the influence we have on students will only be evident years later.

Jared Curcio, 12, Jordan Brough, 11, and Evan Darr, 12, stopped to take a picture together while in Indianapolis for a DECA convention. Each student had to have their own booth set up and were judged accordingly. The winners from this were the ones who were eligible to move on to finals in California.

"Being able to go to California was such a great experience. I really enjoyed being able to spend the time I did there. It gave me a new look on life," said Ryan Golan, 12. He was the only male to go on the trip. Everyone had such a good time and really got to bond with one another. They all came back looking tan and overjoyed with the success they had on their trip.

JOSIE GIDMAN, 11, AND JEREMY STARKWEATHER, 12, WERE STATE CHAMPIONS IN THE EVENT OF CROSS EXAMINATION POLICY AFTER GOING UNDEFEATED IN SEVEN ROUNDS OF DEBATE. THE HARDWORKING PAIR EARNED A SPOT TO COMPETE IN THE NATIONAL DEBATE TOURNAMENT IN BIRMINGHAM, ALABAMA, ALONG WITH AJITH JOHN.

"Our political opinions run the spectrum, but somehow we all manage to argue against what we actually believe for the enjoyment of our judges all throughout the winter."

JEREMY STARKWEATHER, 12, AND JOSIE GIDMAN, 11, BOTH AGREED THE ROAD TO THEIR CHAMPIONSHIP WAS NOT FROM EASY. "WE PUT IN MANY HOURS OF RESEARCH OVER THE YEAR. SEAN PAULSEN, WHO WON THE SAME TROPHY TWO YEARS AGO, PUT IN A LOT OF WORK TOO, TO HELP US TO GET TO STATE," SAID STARKWEATHER. GIDMAN ADDED, "THE REST OF THE TEAM DID REALLY WELL. OVERALL WE HAD A STRONG TEAM WHICH ENABLED US TO PLACE 5TH AS A TEAM IN THE STATE COMPETITION."

MR. DAVID DUTTON, LYDIA COPPEDGE, MADELINE PAULSEN, JEREMY STARKWEATHER, ALL 12, LAURA HARMON, AND JOSIE GIDMAN, BOTH 11, POSED FOR A QUICK PICTURE AT THE END OF THE SEASON BANQUET. MR. DUTTON RECEIVED A THIRD DIAMOND AWARD FROM THE NATIONAL FORENSIC LEAGUE FOR HIS WORK AS A SPEECH AND DEBATE COACH. STARKWEATHER COMPLIMENTED DUTTON'S COACHING STYLE, "MR. DUTTON HAS BEEN GROOMING US SINCE FRESHMAN YEAR TO COMPETE AT THIS EXTREMELY HIGH LEVEL," AND SAID DUTTON WAS WELL DESERVING OF THE AWARD.

BUILDING TRADES

Learning to build, one step at a time

The Penn High School Building Trades program is one students take if they would like to learn about construction. The students in the class produce a house that they have built all their own. The house is later sold to the public at a regular market price. To get in the program students must fill out an application and have to be dedicated to it. The students in this class have to show up at all times, unless there is a snow day or two hour delay, as the class takes up the first two blocks of each day. There is a scholarship involved with the building trades program for a senior who shows the hardest work. This year Cod Lausman was the recipient of the award. Much hard work goes into building this house.

"Building Trades allows me to do what I really love to do. It has taught me so much and I can't wait to be in the class again next year."

I WANT TO GO INTO CONSTRUCTION ONE DAY

Sam Descoe, 11

It's more than just building a house. It's building someone's home. That included laying out the sod. It is heavy lifting, but to these people the work is worth it. They love the class and the yardwork is just another part of it.

Gardening may not be the first thing you think of when you think of building a house. It may seem less crucial than hammering and sawing, but landscaping is essential to sell the house. The house that is built in the class is always sold to homeowners who appreciate the craftsmanship the students put in. The class works hard to make sure that everything is taken care of, and move in ready. Mel Lenigh's students help Les Crooks' crew to landscape.

Black Knight

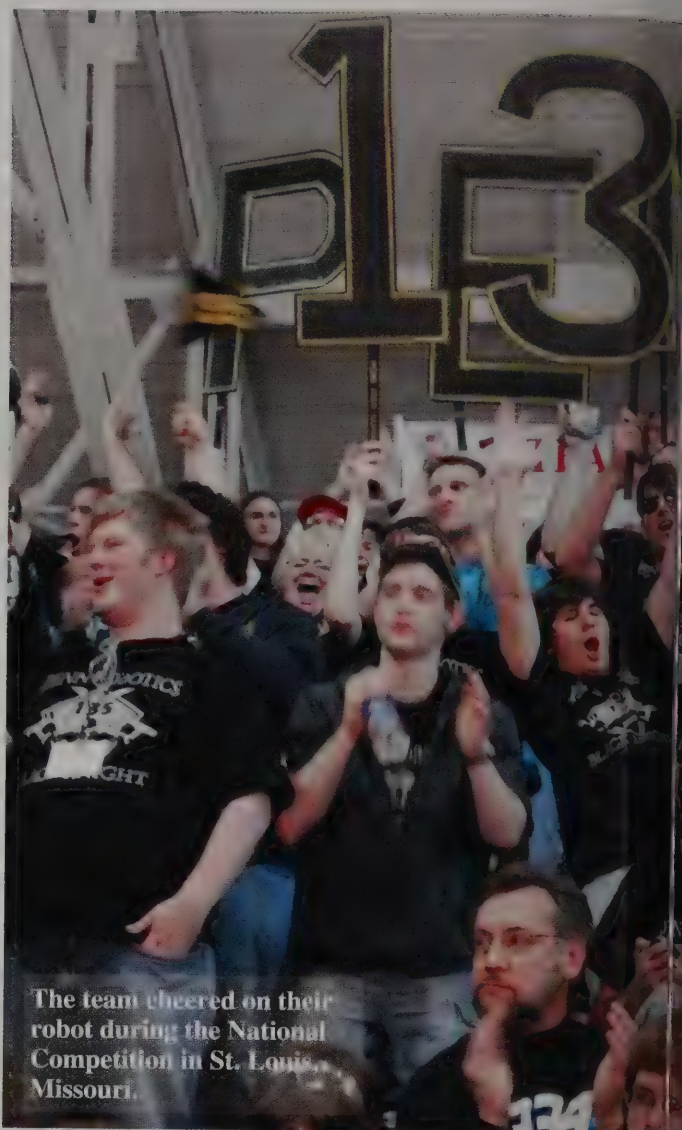

The team posed for a picture on the "sideline" of the competition in between runnings of their robot.

The Penn Robotics team 135 is made up of many well rounded juniors and seniors at Penn High School. The students that participate in the Robotics team are not only talented in the engineering and technology fields but also business, communication and math. There are many steps that are taken leading up to the final competition. This year, the team traveled to St. Louis, Missouri, to compete in the National F.I.R.S.T. Competition. Every year, the team is given a new obstacle to overcome. This year the team had to create a robot that was able to throw Frisbees into a goal. In addition to teacher Jim Langfeldt, adult mentors from the community volunteer hundreds of hours, especially in January and February, when the team often stays after school until 11:00 p.m. and later.

The boys worked very hard to make sure that their robot was ready for competition.

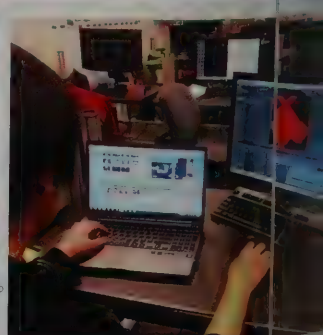

The team celebrates their success with a cake with the trademark words of the F.I.R.S.T. robotics program: Create, Engineer, Inspire.

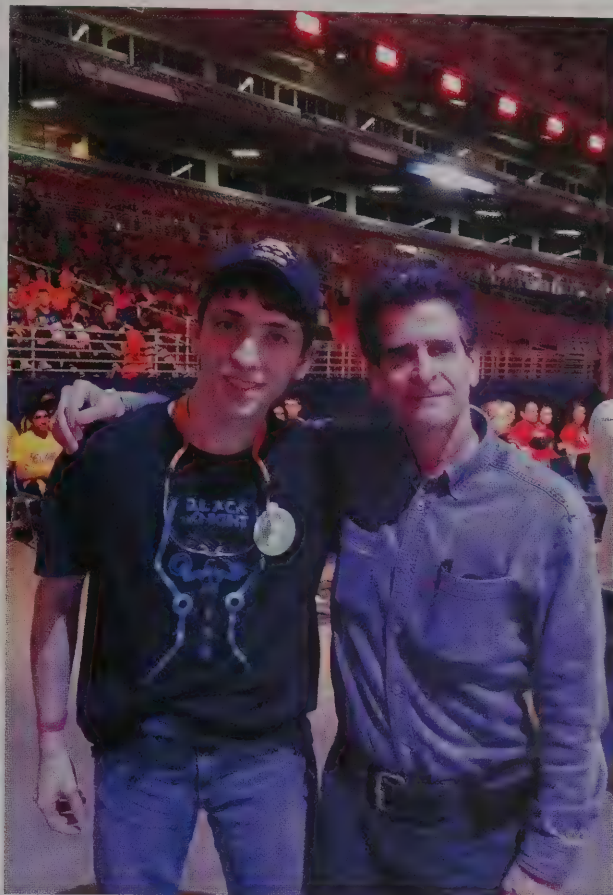

The team cheered on their robot during the National Competition in St. Louis, Missouri.

The team gathers around their robot between activities during the competition.

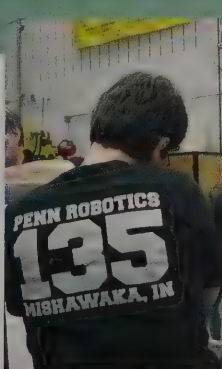

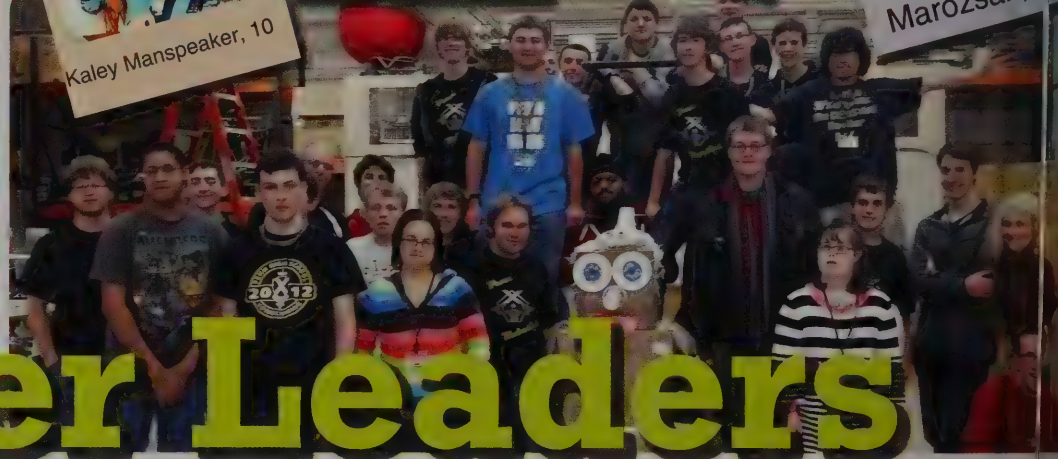

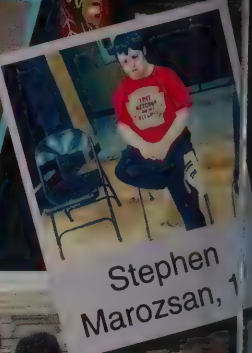

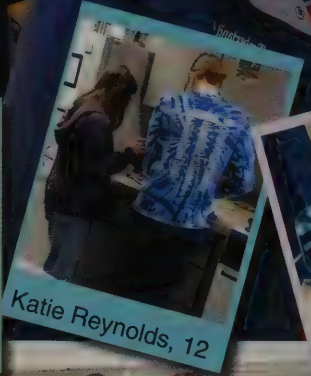

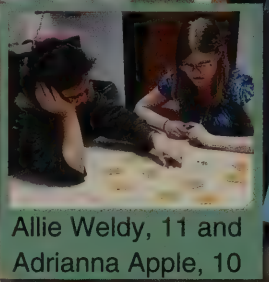

The Robotics team worked extremely hard to complete the goal for this year's competition. The team works for six weeks consecutively to create the robot and establish a winning team. SENIOR Frank LaGambina-Lockwitz, pictured here with Dean Kamen, the founder of F.I.R.S.T., reflected on his past seasons by saying "Being a part of Team 135: Black Knight has not only been enlightening but also rewarding. It has shown me my true passion and I've loved every minute of it."

SENIOR Frank LaGambina-Lockwitz

The team, composed of mainly boys, worked very hard at all different aspects of the preparation for competition, from fundraising to welding.

All Trainers: Jenna Barnett, Celia Dalich, Trenton Rodyma, Gracie Miller, Cassandrah Oliver, Alex Price, Mia Shepherd, Hannah Stanley, Travis Snyder

As Alex Price, junior, rushed through the crowd he quickly transformed into athletic trainer mode. Price kept Mishawaka football player's head stable due to a possible spine injury. Bailee Westra, certified athletic trainer, assessed the athlete trying to figure out what had happened. The athlete was sent to the hospital, but with the help of the athletic trainers, he left with only minor injuries.

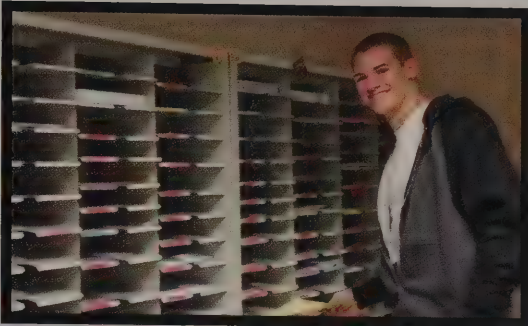

Behind the Scenes Trainers and Managers

WITHOUT trainers, the injured players would not go back onto the field and small injuries would become huge problems. Thankfully, Penn had some of the best student trainers around. They were responsible for making sure athletes got back on the field or court in a short amount of time. Whether the injury was minor or huge, the trainers knew how to properly handle every situation.

DEDICATION is a word these students were very familiar with. They dedicated a large amount of their time every day for most of the school year. Despite giving up most of their free time, they still showed up with a smile on their faces ready to help the athletes. These students were led by the adult trainers, Trish Irvin and Bailee Westra.

MANAGERS were another behind-the-scenes crew who went under the covers along with the trainers. They spent endless hours of their time to clear the laundry, fix equipment, and help out the coaches.

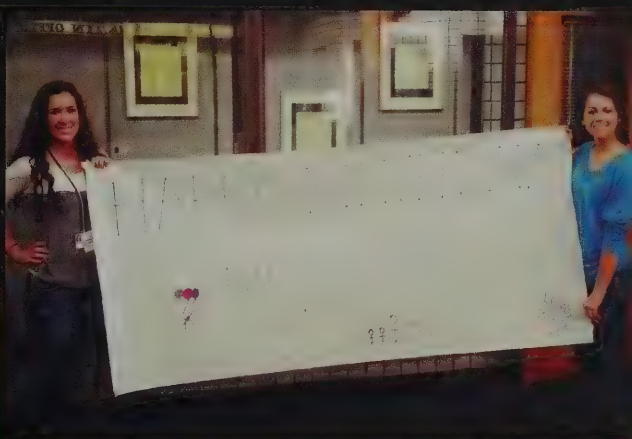

Student assistants gave up their study halls to volunteer their time in a classroom or office around the school. Their activities ranged from delivering passes, checking out books, making copies, getting mail or laminating posters. Every little thing they did helped the school. Senior Nisha Bhatt demonstrated the process of making a copy in the library. Christian Wittendorf, junior, put mail in a teacher's mailbox in the main office. Juniors Kelcie Bailey, Hannah Theriault, and Bethany Galat posed with their student assistant name tags for the Attendance Office. Zach Oakley, junior, checked out a book to senior Ajith John in the Bookstore.

Student Assistants

"It's like a super study hall!"

Joe Demske, junior, IMC student assistant

Boys' Varsity Basketball

NIC CHAMPIONS

BILLY DOSLAK shot a freethrow at the Palace.

JORDAN GEIST, sophomore, rushed past St. Joseph opponent in his attempt to score another point for the Kingsmen.

CORY KREIGER, junior, and NATE MILLER, sophomore, both blocked St. Joseph player Ryan Wobbe.

ISAIAH COOK, junior, used everything he had in order to keep the ball in bounds.

PAUL SZROM, senior, went in for the swat against Notre Dame recruit from Marian.

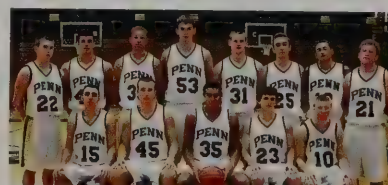

DOSLAK, sophomore

TORRES, senior

The Kingsmen varsity basketball team finished their 2012-2013 season with a total of 17 victories and only five losses, with zero ties. In the NIC Conference the Kingsmen won seven of their eight games. The Kingsmen won the NIC Championship, and were runners up in the Sectional Championship against the Adam Eagles. The Kingsmen ranked 35 in the state. Senior Austin Torres was the talk of the town during this year's season because of his commitment to the University of Notre Dame. He was the only basketball 1st Team also State Academic Kingsman up of only Mikey Szrom, and Connor Sowders. These three seniors stepped up as models to lead the underclassmen on the team.

"Tough times never last, but tough people always do."

- Varsity Basketball Team

CHRISTIAN WITTENDORF, junior, fought against a Marian basketball player for the ball after being shoved to the ground. During the Marian game, Wittendorf tripped running down the court. The photographer captured Wittendorf while he hustled on the floor for the loose ball. Wittendorf has been on the varsity team for two years, and plans on returning for a third next year as a senior.

In the Sectional Championship against Adams High School, JORDAN GEIST, sophomore, took advantage of his fallen opponent to gain control of the ball for the Kingsmen. Penn took a hard loss against the Adams Eagles that ended the 2012-13 season. It was Geist's first year on the Penn Varsity Basketball team. He plans to continue his career as a basketball player for the next two years until he graduates.

CORY KREIGER, junior, and NATE MILLER, sophomore, tripped over one another in what looks to be a game of leap frog. This tussle between the two players was during the Sectional Championship game against Adams. Kreiger has been a part of the Kingsmen's basketball team since his freshman year, and has been a part of the varsity team for two years. He plans to continue playing for the Kingsmen in the 2013-14 season. Miller started on the varsity team as a freshman, and has continued during the 2012-13 season as well. He also plans to continue playing for the next two years.

THE VICTORY LAP

In the opening game of the 2012-13 season, the Kingsmen boys' basketball team dominated against Fort Wayne North Side at the Palace. The game ended with a score of 69-54. This win from the Kingsmen signified Coach Al Rhodes' 500th victory as a basketball coach. Coach Rhodes was a three year letterman at Penn High School and a four year letterman at Tri-State University. Rhodes began coaching basketball in 1975. Throughout his entire career, Rhodes has won 52 championships, 14 sectionals, 7 regionals, four semi-states, and the 1984 state championship. His overall record as the head coach at Penn is 477-214/23-22. He's received the 2005 McDonald's All American coach award. In 2007 he was selected to coach the North-South All-Star game, coached five final four teams, and was inducted into the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame in 2010.

Coach Al Rhodes argued against a bad call made by the ref.

During the Sectional Championship game, Coach Al Rhodes cheered on his varsity players in hope to keep their spirits up. Rhodes is known for being one the most supportive, yet tough loving coaches in the area.

Austin Torres, 12, took advantage of his vertical to try and block future ND teammate.

Connor Sowders, 12, went for a three in the final moments of the Washington game.

PENN GIRLS' BASKETBALL

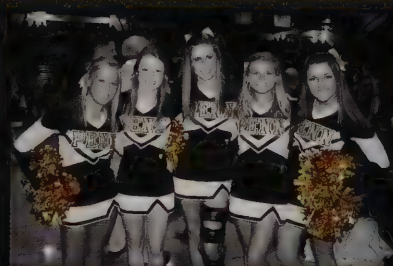

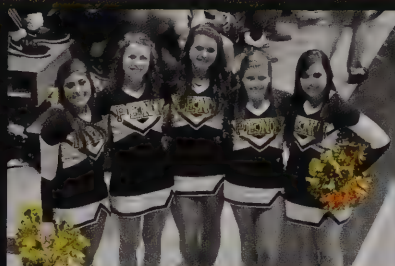

17 - 4

The Lady Kingsmen battled their way through the NIC conference, winning for the 4th year in a row. The girls also won the sectional title, beating Washington and Mishawaka High Schools. Not only did the girls excel in their season, but they did it with two starting freshmen, Camryn Buhr and Kaitlyn Marenzi, and a coach pregnant with her first child. Seniors Olivia Carlton and Taylor Lutz both received scholarships to play at the next level, Carlton at Coastal Carolina University and Lutz at Grand Valley State University. The girls bonded as a team and their friendships were reflected not only in the halls of Penn, but also on the court.

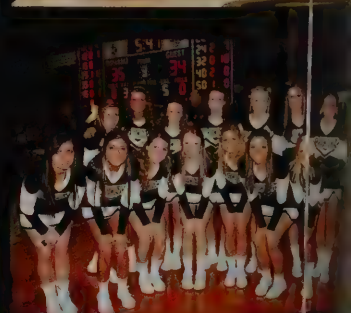

dribble, pass, shoot, cheer

The Penn Cheerleaders were very busy during the winter of 2012-2013 cheering on the Kingsmen basketball teams. The freshman team cheered their team to a 18-4 record. The JV team spirited up the crowd during JV games and helped to get the crowd pumped up for Varsity games. With the spirit and enthusiasm of the cheerleaders the JV basketball team finished their season with a 14-6 record. The JV cheerleaders also helped to stunt with the Varsity cheerleaders during their games. The Varsity squad cheered the Varsity basketball team to a 17-5 record and all the way into the 2013 Sectional Championship, where the team lost a heartbreaker to South Bend Adams.

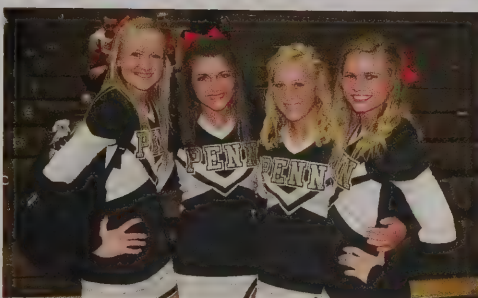

Juniors Carmela Lockwitz, Hannah Inabnit, Abbey Polaski, Mackenzie Holm, and Riley Colley celebrate after a Kingsman victory in the Palace. "Being able to cheer with my best friends for my favorite team was truly rewarding," said Colley.

Jillian Jaques, 9, helped to lead the JV cheer team. Jaques reflected on the season saying, "It was fun getting to know the older girls on the team." Jaques was one of five freshmen to make the JV team for the 2012-2013 basketball season.

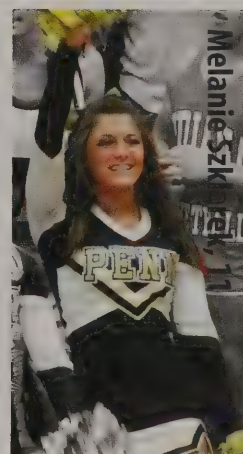

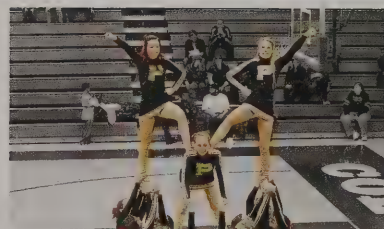

Mackenzie Kolo, Melanie Szklarek, Kaitlyn Levan, and Stephanie Garbaciak, all juniors, wore red bows and red lipstick to get into the holiday spirit. The girls had been cheering together since seventh grade.

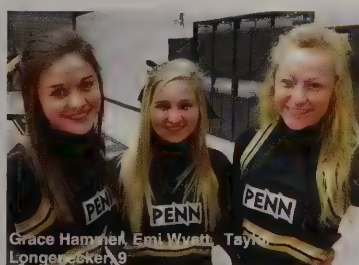

Jade Rogers, junior, said her favorite part of the 2012-2013 season was "being with my friends."

Freshman Taylor Longenecker reflected on the cheer season saying, "Everything was fun. I loved being a part of the Penn cheer program."

Olivia Clem, sophomore, said the funniest thing to happen to her during the season was getting a black eye after performing a stunt for the crowd.

Pin It to Win It

Coach Brad Harper's wrestling team captured its third consecutive regional championship and Mishawaka sectionals. Drew Hildebrandt, Zack Davis, Cameron Beam, Jacob Parks, Alex Rinehart, Joey Mammolenti, and Jeff Wiseman all won their weight class at the NIC Super Duals. Another significant win was against the Kingsmen's rival, the Mishawaka Cavemen, 34-25. Penn finished semi-state in second place with 16 points and Drew Hildebrandt, Zack Davis, Josh Curcio, Alex Rinehart, Joey Mammolenti, Trevor Manspeaker, Jeff Wiseman, and Kobe Woods advanced to State. Junior Zack Davis finished second place at state and Penn's overall score was 17 points.

"Wrestling teaches self-control and pride. Some have wrestled without great skill, but none have wrestled without pride."

Joey Stronik, 12

Not only did Joey capture first place in the Westview wrestling invitational and the IHSAA Mishawaka sectionals, but the 195 pound senior advanced to regionals and won second place.

Jeff Wiseman, 11

The 170-pound wrestler picked up his Mishawaka opponent and prepared to slam him on the mat for a pin. Wiseman won his match 3-1. He also won second round in the state duals along with first place in his weight class at regionals.

State Champions

The Competition poms team practices from the beginning of August to the end of March. This dedication and hard work is what it took to take first at every competition and win state.

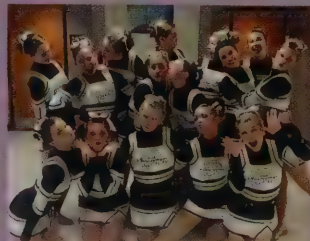

The team was made up of seven seniors, five juniors, and three sophomores. Abby Penland, 12, said about her team, "These girls mean the world to me. I can't imagine a better way to finish my senior year than winning state with this amazing team!"

Regionals, 1st place

State, 1st place

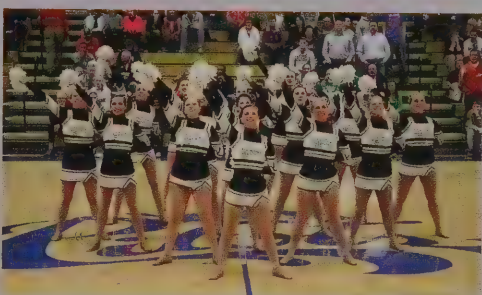

The Competition poms team was coached by Cindi Minegar who has been coaching poms at Penn for 38 years. Samye Snyder, 12, said about her coach, "Cindi not only taught us about dance, but about life as well."

Josie Meiss, 11, and Andrea Speedy, 11, both performed solos at the competitions. Meiss said, "Doing a solo this year was a great experience. It made me realize how close our team was this year. My team always supported me no matter the circumstance."

Every year the team performs at the All-Star basketball game at Bethel College along with Marian High School. This is a great way for the community to see what poms is all about and for the girls to show off the dance they have been perfecting all year.

PERFORMANCE

BLEACHERS

BLEACHERS // After the Varsity Basketball pre-game, the Kingsman fans prepare to watch and be amazed as the JV and Varsity Poms squads perform different routines atop the bleachers. Each member of the squads used their pom poms to create visual entertainment while the Pep Band played their music as the basketball players warmed up. There were three different routines that the girls spent much time preparing for, such as the "Cinnamon Roll" where each girl put their pom poms up on different counts, creating an allusion of a cinnamon roll swirling around. Each bleacher routine was carried out for the entire length of a Pep band song. Both teams worked hard in order to make the fans proud.

Keep Calm and Dance On love. live.

NERVES rushing throughout their bodies as they stare ahead at the empty gymnasium, awaiting for the moment when the announcer introduces the Poms teams. Out on the floor, and the music starts playing. The girls perform their hearts out to the rhythm of the beat, and the crowd goes crazy. This is the scenario which a member of the Poms team experiences every halftime at the boys' basketball games. Each member of the team performed at pre-game, did bleachers, and then danced to contemporary pop music which got the crowd pumped. Along with those performances, the varsity team performed a Christmas kick routine in December. Plenty of hard work was necessary in order to perfect each and every dance. On Mondays and Wednesdays the girls practiced to ensure that they conditioned in order to build stamina. The Pom Pom teams experienced a fantastic season together. The teams were basically like sisters for six months spanning from September to March.

THE Junior Varsity girls welcomed two foreign exchange students to their team this year. Claudia Milazzo was from Parma, Italy, and Manon Garnier was from Paris, France. Garnier's favorite part of being on the Poms team was the halftime shows where she could dance in front of the crowd.

THE Junior Varsity team was comprised of 19 sophomores, juniors, and seniors, coached by Hannah Richards. The team had four different dances they performed at the JV basketball halftime. The songs were "Thought of You" by Justin Bieber, "Right Now" by Rihanna, "Bulletproof" by La Roux, and a mix of songs including "Shake It" by Metro Station.

THE Varsity Pom Pon team enjoyed a memorable season together. There were 18 girls ranging from freshmen through seniors, and they were coached by Cindy Bernard. Their performances included the songs, "Troublemaker" by Taio Cruz, "On the Floor" by Jennifer Lopez, "Moves Like Jagger" by Maroon 5, and "Don't Stop the Party" by Pitbull. Around Christmas time a kick routine was done.

"I am so thankful to have been a part of the Poms Squad for all four of my years at Penn! I loved getting to know my team members and creating an awesome team bond. I am really going to miss game nights and performing for the crowd. I have been lucky to have great coaches, team members, and fans support me and Penn Poms!" -Brie Landis

"Being captain on Penn Varsity Poms was truly a dream come true. The girls were amazing people and were probably the best group of girls to lead. I wish all the girls the best of luck with their coming years through Poms and even their life! I love them all!" -Kaitlyn Adams

"I have been so blessed to have been a part of Penn Poms all four years of my high school career. The girls I have spent this time with have made a huge impact on my life; they have become my second family. I'm going to miss everything about Poms, and I wish everyone the best in the years to come." -Colleen Weldy

JUST KEEP SWIMMING //

Sophomore Bowen Anderson, one of the new swimmers in town, said, "It was hard at first getting used to the new environment, but the people here at Penn, especially this team, helped out tremendously, and were more than supportive. Penn Swimming is great, and it was an honor swimming with them at sectionals, as well as State."

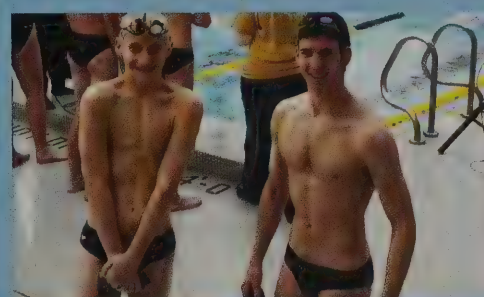

SEASON SUMMARY // The boys started their winter season as always, crushing their competition, one meet at a time. This year the team bonded more than any year. Over the long season, the boys found many ways to keep their mind off the difficult practices. One of the things they did was create a dance video called a "Harlem Shake!" Senior Travis Bavar said, "Check out the video on YouTube! I swear, you won't be disappointed!" The team ended their season with Penn's best finish in state since 2005, setting several school and pool records along the way.

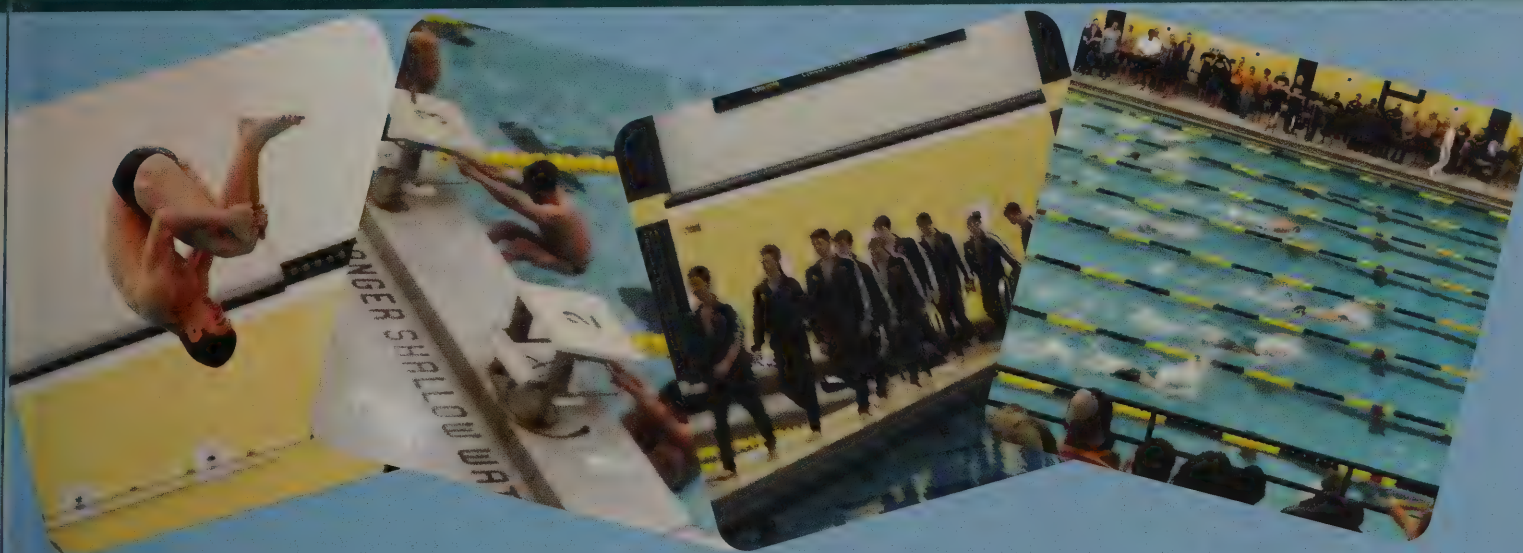

Junior Mitch Blank said, "Looking back at the season you could say I had a successful season. Despite the several belly flops here and there, I had a phenomenal season. I look forward to next year with my team."

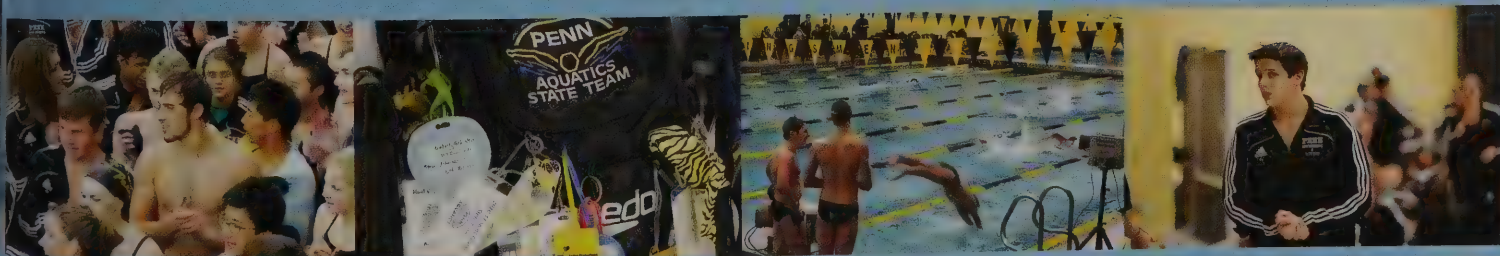

Penn ended their season with significant wins over rivals St. Joseph, Riley, and Washington. Several individuals broke pool and personal swimming records.

Senior Michael Chettleburgh said, "Swimming here at Penn was such a memorable experience. I couldn't have achieved all that I did, without the help and support from both my coaches and my team."

"No one ever got stronger by working less." -Kyle Morris

STATE SUMMARY // Penn sent five swimmers to IUPUI in late February to compete in the state swimming final. Finishing with Penn High School's best score in state since 2005, the group of boys were way more than satisfied. Senior Tanner Anderson placed second in the 200 IM, as well as sophomore Bowen Anderson in the 500 meter. Penn also scored second in the 200 medley relay. Every one of the Kingsmen who traveled down to Indy placed great in each of their events, helping Penn stack up point for their fifth place win.

Penn Kingsmen

The Biggest Splash Yet!

This season, the girls really stepped up to the block. Their amazing talent combined with incredible work ethic led them to the best finish a Penn High School girls' swim team has ever achieved: second place at the State meet.

"This season was an amazing way to finish out my high school swimming career. All of the girls worked really hard and we really came through." -Jenn Priebe, 12

Not only was it the best state finish ever by the girls, but also their 3rd year in a row going undefeated. In addition to this already impressive list of achievements, the team was NIC champions for the 18th year in row! At the state meet, Bethany Galat, junior, won the 200 Individual Medley for the second consecutive year. Not only did Galat defend her title, but brought home another first place finish individually in the 100 yard breaststroke.

"Winning state last year was the best feeling in the world, but having won again this year was indescribable." -Bethany Galat, 11

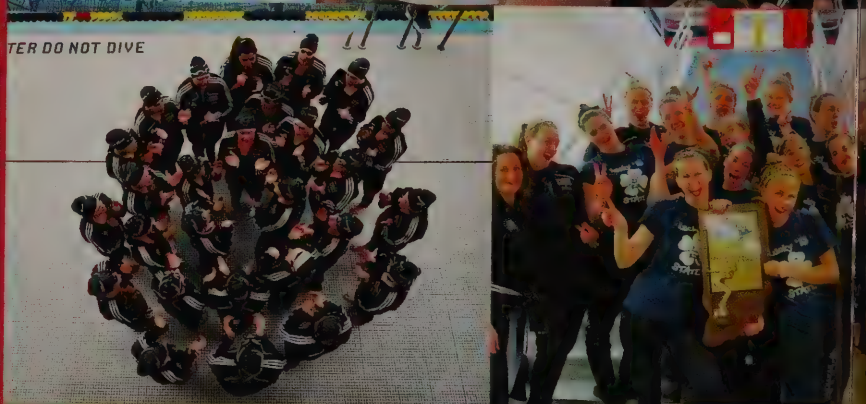

The girls welcomed a new senior to their team this year, Addisynn Bursch. Bursch transferred from Washington to Indiana second semester. Although it was a tough transformation, the team welcomed her with open arms.

"All of the girls were super nice and welcoming this year!

They made the transition a lot easier and I am so glad I was able to make so many new friends." -Addisynn Bursch

After enduring a long, treacherous practice, the girls sat down to enjoy a team dinner. Pasta parties were a great way for the girls to bond and also to eat some excellent food.

The road to state was an exciting time. The girls packed all of their swim gear and hit the road to prepare for the big meet. The girls struck a pose before hopping into the cold pool to warm up for the biggest meet of the season.

The morning before a meet all of the swim team dressed to impress. Meet days are always filled with flurry as they prepare for their afternoon meet.

WORDS OF WISDOM // "Good teams don't get bored with the process or discouraged with the journey and that's why we have won the conference for the fourth year in a row. We have had a certain fire and focus that most other teams lose throughout the course of a long season, but we've been able to understand it's a process and enjoy the journey along the way while competing at a high level-swing." Fire & Focused

"These two words are what we bring to the court every game. The definition of 'fire' is passion and energy. The definition of 'focused' is tuned in and alert. Every game we are expected to bring these two things to the table, and nothing less than our best. This is what makes our teams the best."

Hard Work Beats Talent

The freshman and junior varsity wrestling teams had seasons to remember. Being dedicated throughout the off season paid dividends in the long run. The boys finished the season undefeated going 21-0. Coach Brad Harper said, "I have high hopes and expectations for the upcoming season. I'm excited for JV wrestlers and with their hard work, we are determined to win a state title with their commitment."

Joseph Martorano, 10, wrestled his competitor from Mishawaka. Without letting his opponent from his grasp, Martorano prepared to pin and take the win for the JV team.

Jacob Dawson, 11, wrestled his opponent from LaPorte High School, at the Penn Invite. Dawson ended his season with six pins, twelve matches with wins by points, and four losses.

Chow Time!

In order to compete in their desired weight class, wrestlers must be meticulous about what they eat and watch how much they weigh. Some wrestlers have to maintain their current weight while others go to extremes to "cut weight". After the Munster Tournament, the team traveled to White Castle to eat. The team had a competition to see who could eat the slider burgers the fastest. Most of the wrestlers participated, and even some of the coaches joined in the fun after the meet.

Giovanni Ponce De Leon and Cody Masters, 9, competed to see who could eat the fastest. Ponce De Leon said, "It was a good team bonding experience, and we could eat as much as we wanted."

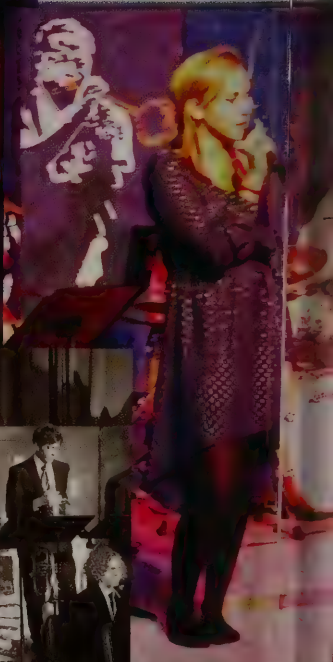

Austin Nafe, 9, and Coach Brad Harper competed to see who could eat the fastest. Nafe said "Trying to see who could eat the burger the fastest was hard, but I beat Coach Harper so it was fun."

After dinner at El Cafe in Havana, Sky (Chase Andreae, 10) listens to Miss Sarah (Haley Atkins, 12).

DeOnte Putnam, Bethannie Huffman, Catherine Mills and Broderick Balsley perform at the El Cafe Cubana.

GOLOS

"Well, wouldn't you?" Adelaide (Addy Culpepper, 12) is a nightclub singer who has been engaged to Nathan Detroit for 14 years. She wants to get married, and when Nathan suggests eloping, she's ready! She wants to leave the lights of Broadway for a house with a white picket fence and roses around the door--and several children. In fact, she's already written her mother that she has five children--with another on the way.

The Hot Box Girls, led by Miss Adelaide (Addy Culpepper, 12), entertained with their rendition of "A Bushel and A Peck." This song and "Take Back Your Mink" featured the seven girls dancing to choreography by dance teacher Jenn Wolfe. McKenna Smith, Catherine Mills, Alexandria Sadowski, Julia Gries, Bethannie Huffman and Mary-Grace Ahearn sang harmonious backup while dancing like Rockettes.

"Follow the Fold and stray no more, stray no more, stray no more. . ." Miss Sarah Brown (Haley Atkins, 12), the leader of the Save-a-Soul Mission, sings with the Mission Band in an effort to convince the gamblers to give up their evil ways. Arvide Arnaty (Tyler Yarbrough), Sarah's grandfather and bass drum player, encourages her to pay some attention to Sky Masterson (Chase Andreae, 10), one of the biggest gamblers of them all. Sky promises Miss Sarah twelve sinners if she goes to Havana with him.

over to Miss Adelaide, the Hot Box girls prepare to go to Mindy's for a... or is it strudel?

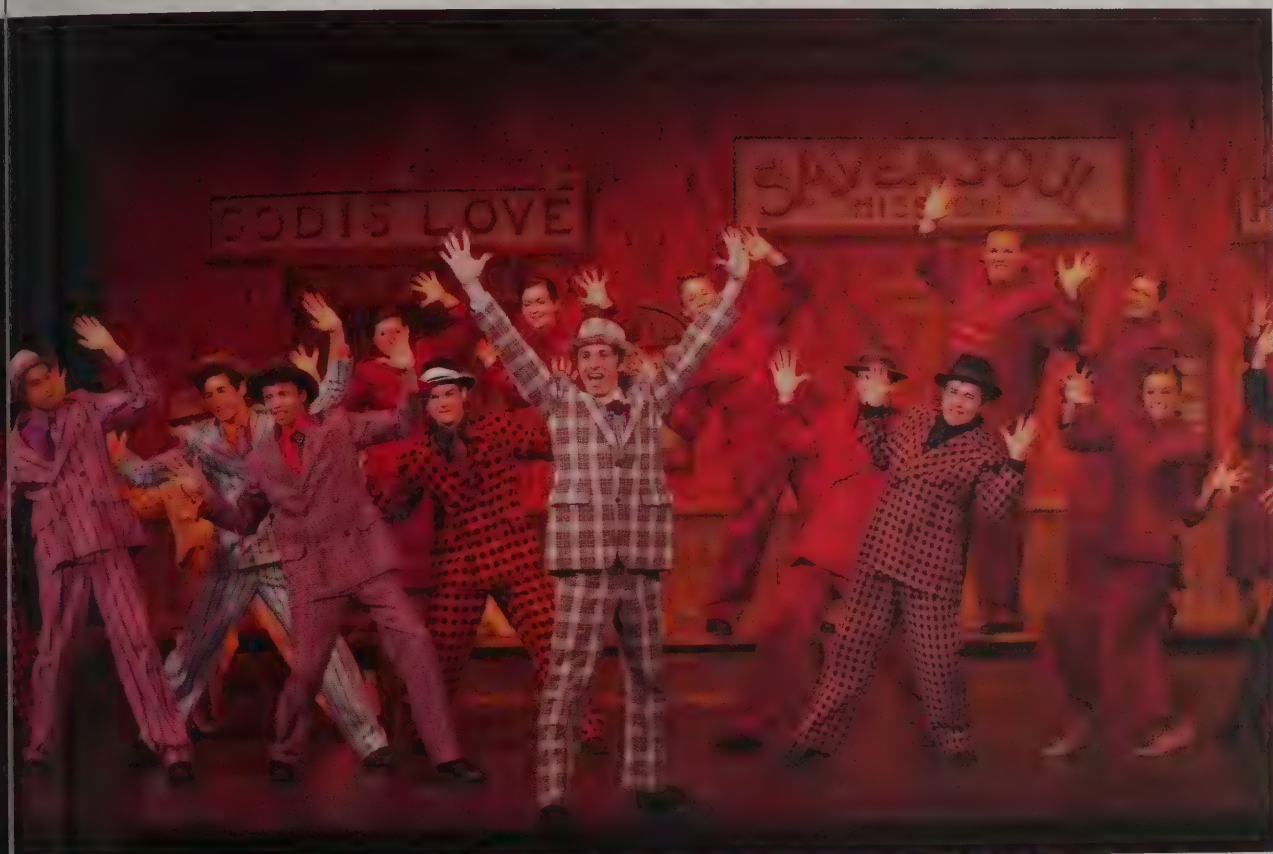

Miss Adelaide and Miss Sarah bond while singing "Marry the Man Today" as they scheme to "change his ways tomorrow."

"What makes you think that I was one of those girls?" The Hot Box girls sing "Take Back Your Mink" to start Act II.

Lt. Branigan (Esteban Wygant) is suspicious that the gamblers are holding a crap game in a secret location. After holding it in the Mission itself, they then held it in the sewers.

Sky, now going by his real name, Obadiah, repents and joins the Mission Band with Miss Sarah as Nathan and Adelaide get married in the Mission.

Lick be a Lady Gambling and love, sinners and nightclub singers

Based on stories by Damon Runyon, Guys and Dolls follows colorful characters as they try to find a place to gamble in 1950s New York. The play centers around Nathan Detroit, who is engaged to Miss Adelaide, and a bet he makes with Sky Masterson, who falls in love with Miss Sarah.

"I dreamed last night. . ." Nicely Nicely (Dominic Oletti, 12) sings about heaven and dice in "Sit Down, You're Rockin' The Boat."

Love ME

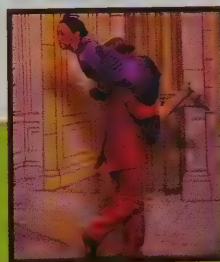

"Love breaks a barrier of differences and can bring together two people of different lifestyles and backgrounds."

Hailey Atkins, 12

"The play shows us that at the core, love and hate show the same qualities."

Kylie Bruetman, 11

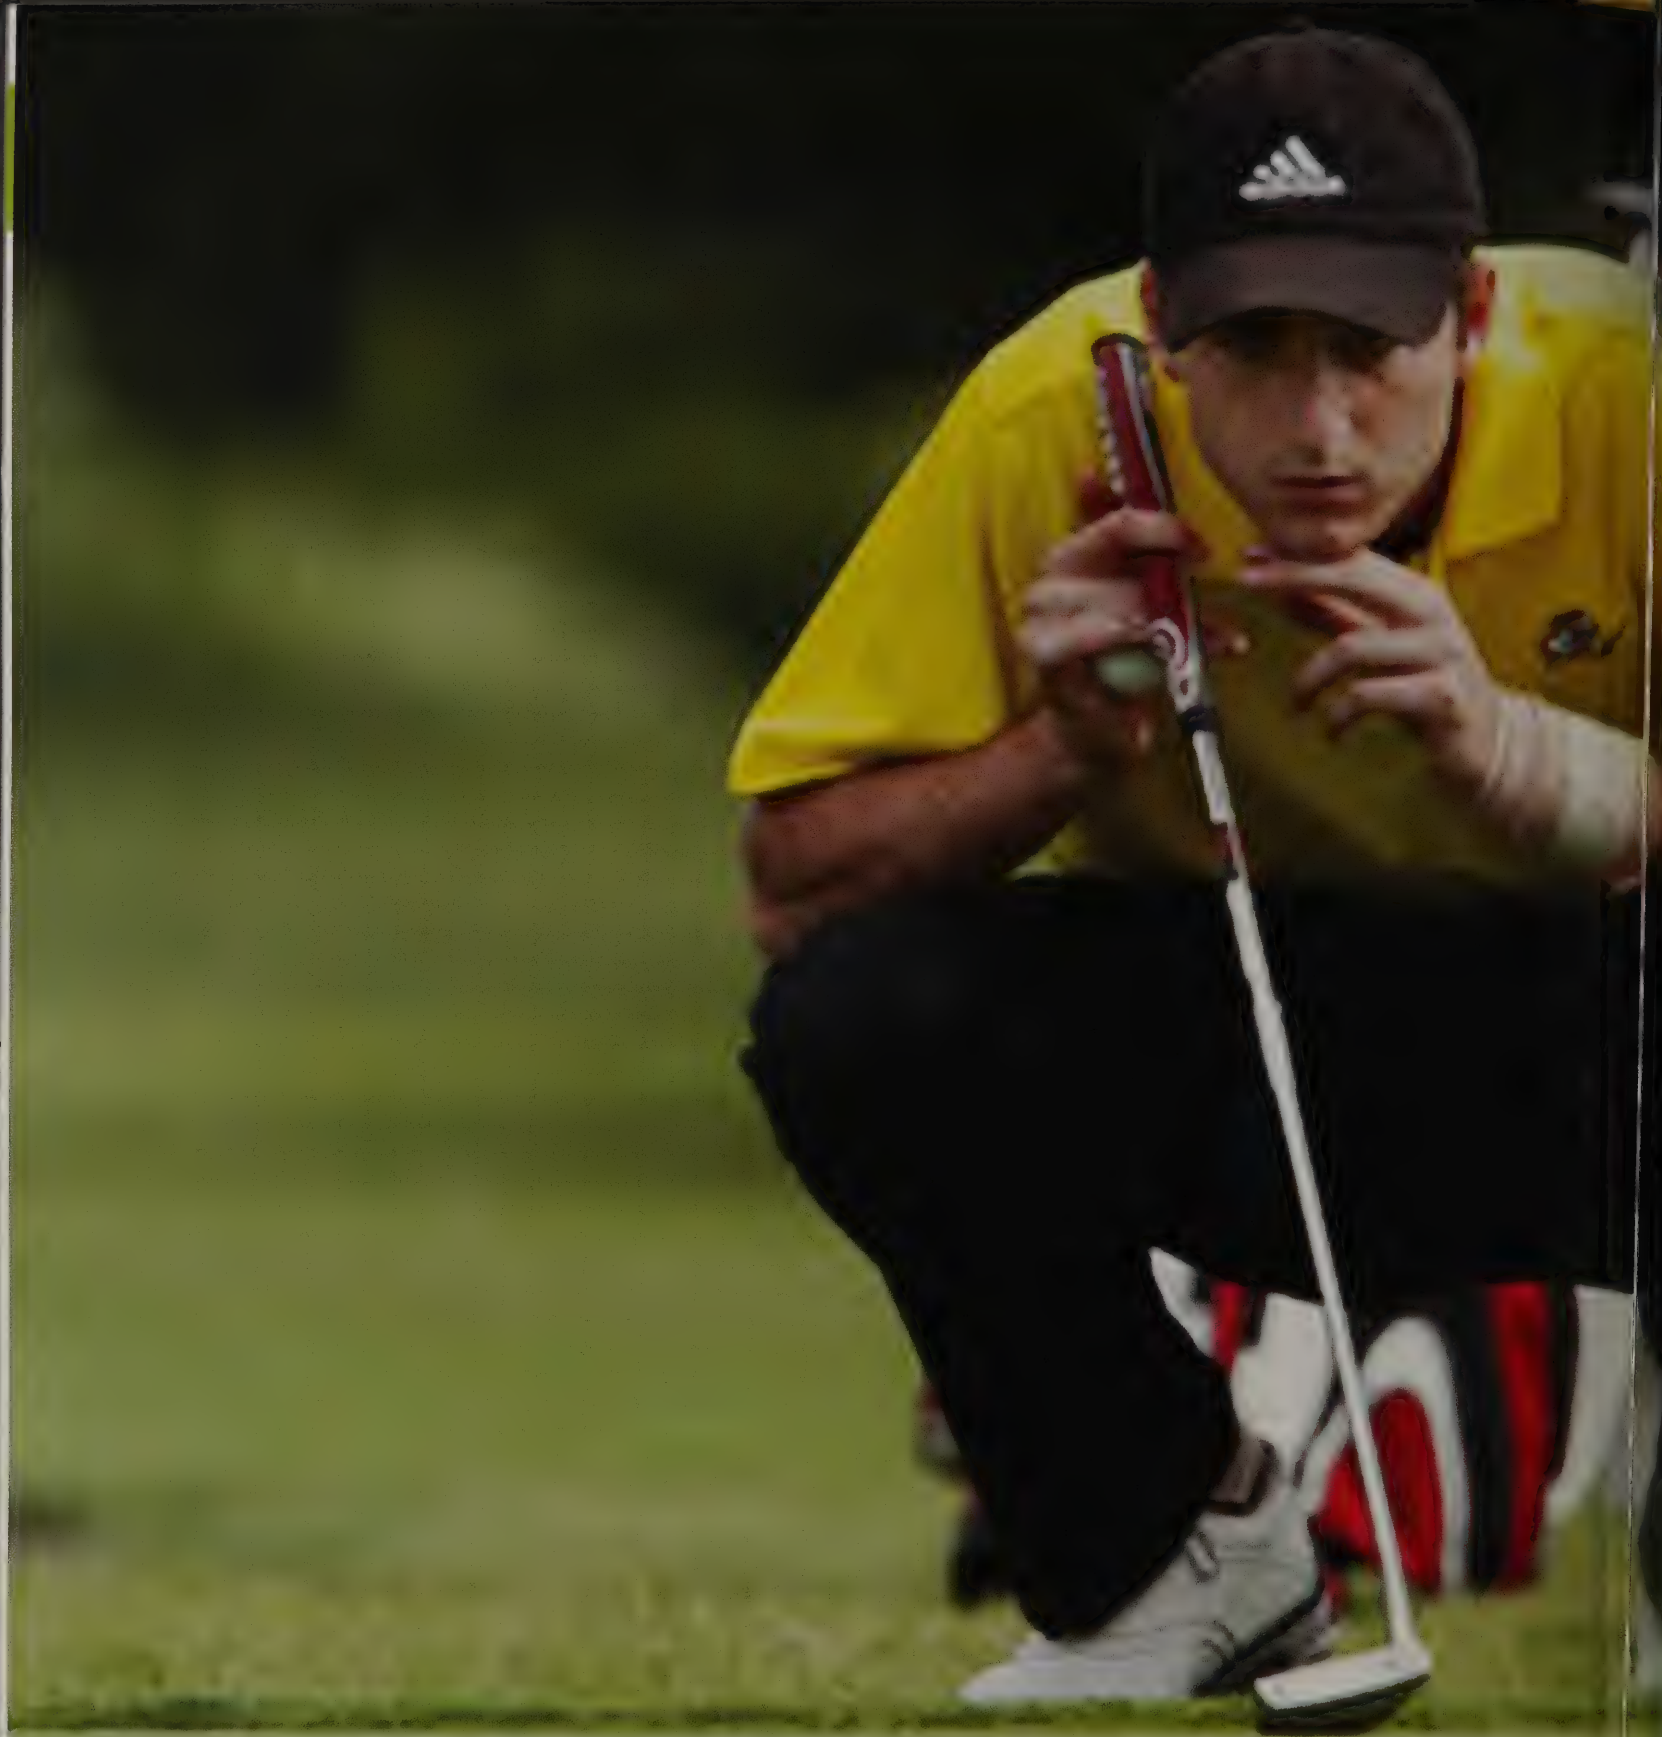

"This play shows that love is the most important thing and that it will always find a way. Love is forever; everything else will eventually fade."

Addy Culpepper, 12, as Miss Adelaide, engaged for 14 years to Nathan Detroit

"This play shows you that love can be found far beyond where you would expect to find it. It teaches you that love comes with its ups and downs but in the end it's all worth it!"

AT THE PALACE

*"As we go on,
WE REMEMBER..."*

...Vitamin C's famed lyrics could almost guarantee there wouldn't be a dry eye in a room of Penn's seniors. With graduation fast approaching, students were itching for the day they could finally toss up their cap at the Joyce Center. It wasn't just the seniors who were excited for the end of the school year, and in the days leading up to that final school day students started up practice in spring sports, delved into their studies in the home stretch of their classes, and relished in finally being able to drive with the windows rolled down. Student council led "SPLASH" week in an effort to bring students together and celebrate who they were as individuals with shirts that bore the slogan "I am ME." Despite the warm atmosphere inside the building, Spring Break 2011 was anything but "springy" with snow on the ground just days prior to March 31st. Needless to say, students were relieved when the walk from church to door A finally didn't require a jacket and gloves. The warming weather brought with it a slew of spring events for students with Prom, Pennstock, Battle of the Bells, and the Silver Mile all leading up to June fifth.

"We are uncharacteristically young (starting six freshmen and sophomores)," coach Beth Zachary said. "We need a leader like [senior] Kiley [Kemmerling]." The team won 19 out of 25 games, but finished with a heartbreaking loss against Riley at Sectionals, 10-6, a game that was much closer than the final score shows. Head coach Zachary has coached for six years at Penn. Of her girls, she said, "As the snow came down on us unexpectedly at practice one day, I asked the girls to lie down on the mound together, be silent and just enjoy the moment. The boys' golf team ended their season on a high note. They were the sectional champs with a score of 308 and came in ninth place at regionals with a score of 318. Nicholas Thurin said about their season, "We had a great season this year and I am so glad that I was able to be apart of this team." Thurin was one of the top five players throughout the year as a freshman. This was very impressive and he contributed a lot to the team. Seniors J.T. Schwartz, Connor Buckman, Tommy Butler, and Thomas Bowers, as well as junior Richard Jung, also had very successful seasons.

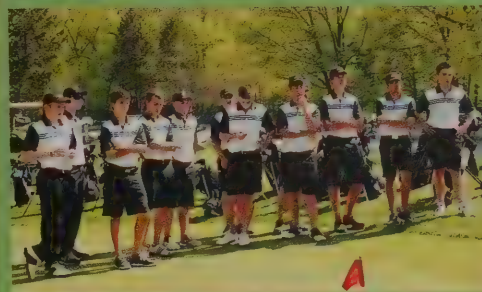

J.T. Schwartz, 12

The boys' golf team had a great season. They went undefeated in their regular season and got second at the NIC tournament. With this record, they won the NIC conference this year.

This year the golf team had a new coach, Coach Polizzotto. He said about the season, "I enjoyed the first year of coaching more than I imagined I would. If they enjoyed me half as much as I enjoyed them, then it was a successful season."

The team practices fifteen hours a week at Knollwood Country Club. Golf is a sport that takes a lot of practice and this team definitely put the time and effort into it to make their season successful.

Boys' Lacrosse

Junior Varsity LAX

JV SEASON SUMMARY // Their season ended with a 7-7 record. Sophomore Jake Wirth said, "Our season went fairly well, we couldn't have won the games we did without the support and great teamwork from each and every player." Sophomore George Hamilton added, "Our best game by far this year was our game against St. Joseph at Notre Dame's Arlotta Stadium. We won by a landslide and every player had a chance to play."

IMPROVEMENT // Sophomore Clay Collier said, "My season was filled with enormous improvement. Every practice I would go out and work on everything I did wrong the previous game, each time, getting a little better. We had a great season this year, and I'm anxious to see what our next year's season will bring."

EXPERIENCE // Splash Week, March 18-22, some of the JV boys participated in some of the activities they had to offer. When the group was asked how it went they shouted, "It was a great experience getting to know each other better and having fun while doing it!" They are teammates on the field, and great friends off of it.

ATTACK // Junior Tucker Sexton says, "Season this year was great!" Sexton slammed one into the goal, while on attack, against Guerin Catholic in Indianapolis.

Failure is another stepping stone to greatness. - Cotton Foley '73

On the field and off the field, the boys lacrosse team is always together. Sophomore Conor Redden says, "We are teammates when we play, but outside of the game we are brothers. If I ever need anything I know that any one of these guys would be there."

Sophomore Alex Spector said, "This is my second year playing lacrosse and one of my best decisions yet. It wouldn't be the same if it weren't for my coaches pushing me, as well as my teammates, family and the fans. It's a privilege playing lacrosse for Penn High School."

Senior Alex Hartman will be furthering his lacrosse career at Indiana University next school year, taking with him the memories spent with his team and the skills learned with Penn lacrosse and the remarkable coaches.

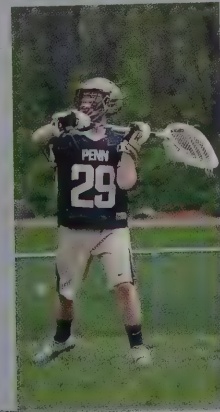

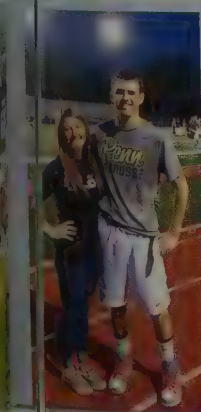

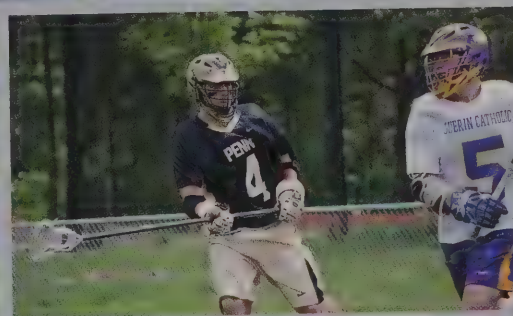

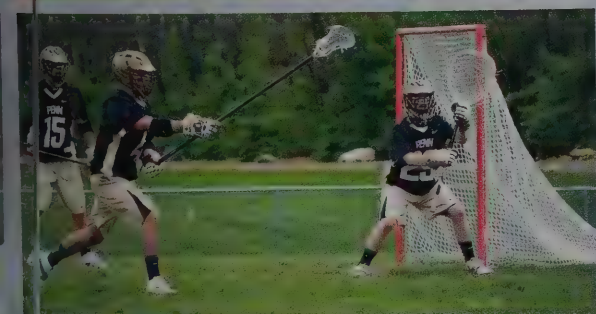

Varsity LAX

The boys ended their season this year with a record. Senior Austin Baker said, "Season this year was great! It was awesome playing with new teammates and helping them out with the game." Baker also added, "Going out and playing with these guys will definitely be missed next year."

Senior Jacob Noeldner

Junior Austin Reid said, "My season went well because I got a little better. I hope to keep on improving going into to my next and final season here at Penn."

This isn't just a team,
it's a family.

TEAM DINNER // Part of the team posed after finishing one of the best parts about the lacrosse season: team dinners. Each girl brought something to the table the night before a big game. It gave the girls an opportunity to bond not just on the field, but off of the field as well.

THE LAST LAP // It is tradition that on the last practice of the regular season, the seniors take their last lap as a Penn lacrosse player. The seniors made such an impact on the underclassmen and they were such inspiring leaders and role models throughout the season. The seniors were the motivational support each game and each practice. The seniors kept the team energized, determined, and always ready to play with intensity.

SHE'S ON DEFENSE // Mary Ellis, 11, Jazmine Mangual, 9, Katie Bilik, 10, Mica Shenk, 11, and Kailey Pate, 11, stood together in unison after each defender scored a goal against Herron High school.

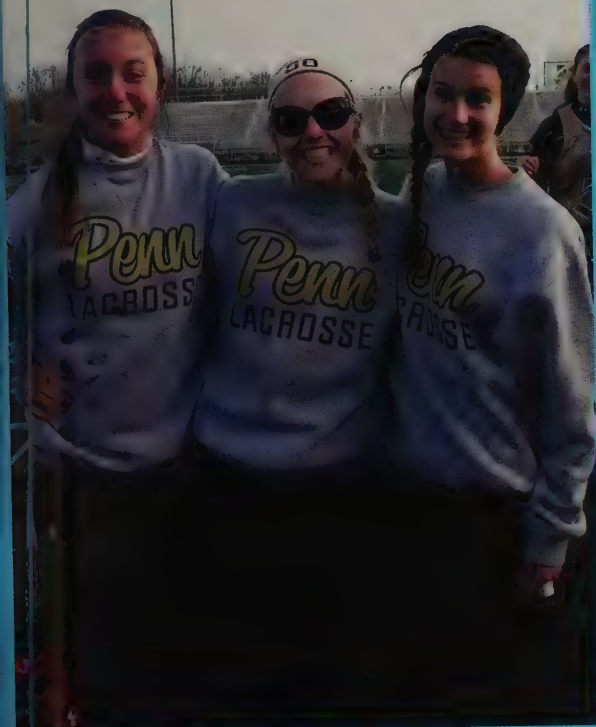

BRING IT IN FOR A CHEER // The Junior Varsity team huddled up for a cheer after a sweet victory against Warren Central. The girls played a great defense as well as offense throughout the entire game.

The seniors struck a pose the night of Senior Night. This night was dedicated to the seniors to recognize all of their hard work, devotion, and leadership. The girls took home a W that night against Concord with goals scored by almost every attack player.

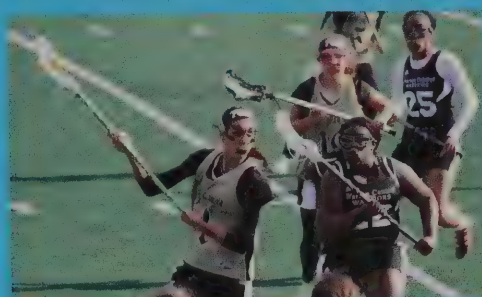

Julia Forberg, 9, Allison Patrick, 10,
Enma Yoder, 9

Martha Midkiff, 12, intercepted the ball and took it all the way to goal to give Penn another point on the scoreboard. Midkiff had 3 goals for the 2013 season and yes--she is on defense.

Amanda Nafe, 11, was a key defender for Penn. She was always there when the team needed to keep the ball from scoring.

Emily Dobay, 10, battled it out for a ground ball against Warren Central. After making a perfect pass, she remained on defense, determined to stop the opposing team from scoring a goal.

PERRENNIAL POWER: ONE OF THE NATION'S

RUGBY IS LIKE LIFE. IT IS MORE THAN JUST A GAME.
IT IS TIME TO GET ACTIVE AND PLAY WITH FRIENDS.

IT JUST A GAME // On Saturday, May 4, the Developmental, JV and varsity teams all came out on top in their individual brackets, and were crowned champions of the Midwest Tournament. All three teams went on, not only undefeated in the tournament, but were barely scored on with the JV holding Bishop Dwenger to zero points and scoring 70, and the varsity team destroying Grand Rapids Catholic and Bishop Dwenger. Junior Loren McSorely was 10 for 10 on conversion kicks, and Senior Teddy Terezis led Penn in scores with 17 points. // After three years of travelling to Pittsburgh and Utah, Penn got to play home at Moose Rugby Grounds in Elkhart to host the Nationals. Seeded fourth going into the games, Penn finished fourth in the National Championships, losing to Xavier (N.Y.) 38-10. Troy Tirotta scored a try and had an assist for Penn. Aaron also scored a try, and Alex Dorrier had an assist. // "The kids really love to play the game, and now we're getting the athletes," said coach Bart Bottorff. "The athletes are bringing the athletes. If I can get an athlete for two, three years, I can turn him into a pretty good rugby player." Nick Farber and Mitch Graham agree. "We've worked hard for this," Graham said.

times, but what family isn't?"

-Shelby Dubree, senior

Penn Girls' Rugby was not only a sport, it was a lifestyle. Teammates became family and the memories created last a lifetime. For the seniors, the newbies were sad to see them go but they thanked them for passing along their wisdom and welcoming them into their arms. Though the seniors would be greatly missed, the rest of the family hoped to see them do great in life and keep rucking hard.

Penn girls played hard against Westfield with great tackles and many tries. Westfield was defeated 34-0.

Penn fought hard against Bishop Dwenger and though they didn't win, they made sure they tied with a score of 7-7.

In the first game of the season against the midwest champions of last year, North Central, Penn rucked their way to a victory of 29-0.

KINGSMEN TENNIS

Game, Set, Match

The girls' tennis team had high expectations for their season and worked very hard to achieve their goals. They ended the season with an overall record of 22-1, with their only loss at State. With a long, hard fought weekend in Indianapolis, the team ended up with third place at State and a successful end to their season. The junior varisty team also had a great season with their final record of 13-0. Everyone on both teams not only grew as tennis players but also as great teammates.

~Seniors~

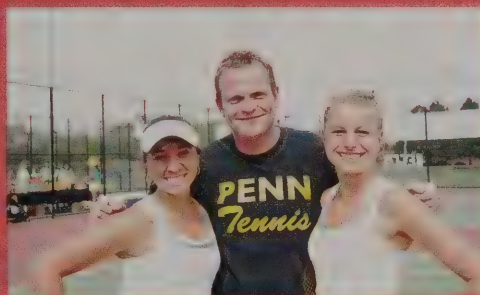

Six seniors played on this year's team: Kate Made, Haley Meekhof, Maddie Lee, Grace Heise, Beca Lira, and Kelsey Wagner. Whether they had been on the team for all four years or just this one, each contributed her own part to the team. Senior Made stated about her time on the Penn tennis team, "It's been an honor to be a part of this team for the past four years and I am thankful for the friendships I've made with both the players and coaches."

The tennis team's three senior captains, Haley Meekhof, Maddie Lee, and Kate Mader, were not only great leaders on the court, but great friends off. All three have been on varsity since their freshmen year. Maddie Lee, 12, stated, "This season was a perfect end to my high school tennis career. The connections and opportunities I've had are priceless."

The number one doubles team made up of senior Haley Meekhof and sophomore Lauren McCarthy stood by the scoreboard after their big win against tough competition of Culver. Meekhof stated of this season, "This year has been really special with the opportunity to help lead a team that is this talented and fun to be around."

Penn Senior Captains Maddie Lee and Kate Mader stood with Coach Bowers during senior night. Senior Night was bittersweet for the team as they celebrated their senior season. Bowers has been the girls' tennis head coach for six years and an important part of both Lee and Mader's tennis careers at Penn.

"This year was one to remember. We finished with a record of 22-1 and I could not be more proud. We grew as a family and the success and memories we made will never be forgotten."

-Coach Eric Bowers

"No team in the state had a better selection of bottled water than us...it gave the team a leg up on the competition."

Penn Boys' Track

2013 Season

The Kingsmen boys' track had an outstanding season. Much effort was put into brutal practices in the heat and in the cold, but it paid off. The boys' track team ended up winning the boys' NIC and Sectional titles. They also placed second at Regionals. Many records were broken which made it such an exciting season for not only the runners, but the coaches as well.

VARSITY 4x100 METER DASH //

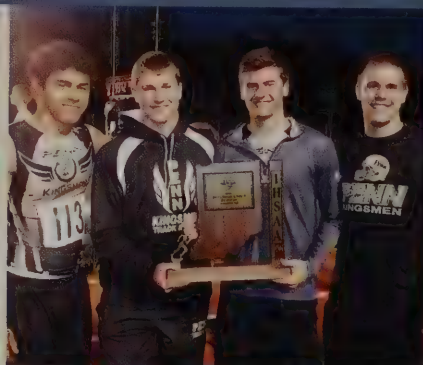

Tim Deal and Zach Oakley, both juniors, and Tommy Grant and Blake Beehler, both seniors, made up the varsity 4x100 meter relay team, taking second at the Kokomo Regionals. The boys headed to state and ended up placing 25th.

VARSITY POLE VAULT //

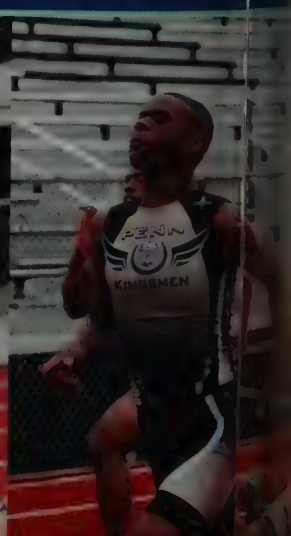

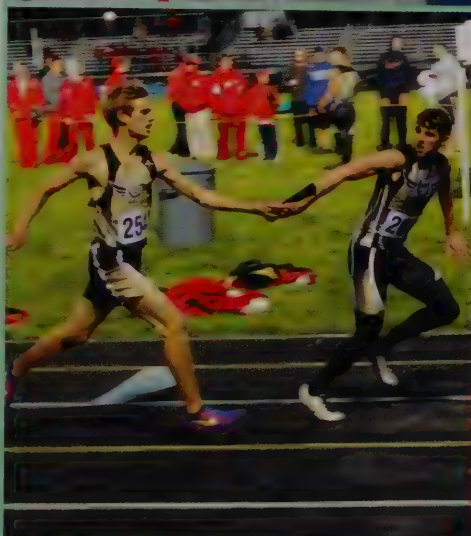

Quentin Cooling, sophomore, took 3rd in the Sectionals and advanced to the Kokomo Regionals. Cooling's highest jump was a height of 12 feet 9 inches.

VARSITY 4x400 METER RELAY //

Thomas Gales, junior, hands off the baton to the third leg of the relay, Conner Sowders, senior. The last race of the meet, and the most exciting, had its ups and downs throughout the season. The varsity 4x400 meter relay placed first in NIC, Sectionals, and 2nd in Regionals.

"Records are meant to be broken," said Tommy Grant, senior, at Penn Sectionals when he set a new record of 10.53, shattering the old state record of 10.7 which had been set in 1954. Grant ran the 18th fastest 100 meter dash ever in the state of Indiana.

Tim Deal, 11

Placing first at the Goshen Relays for the first time in school history, the Kingsmen edged Warsaw by one point for the first place title.

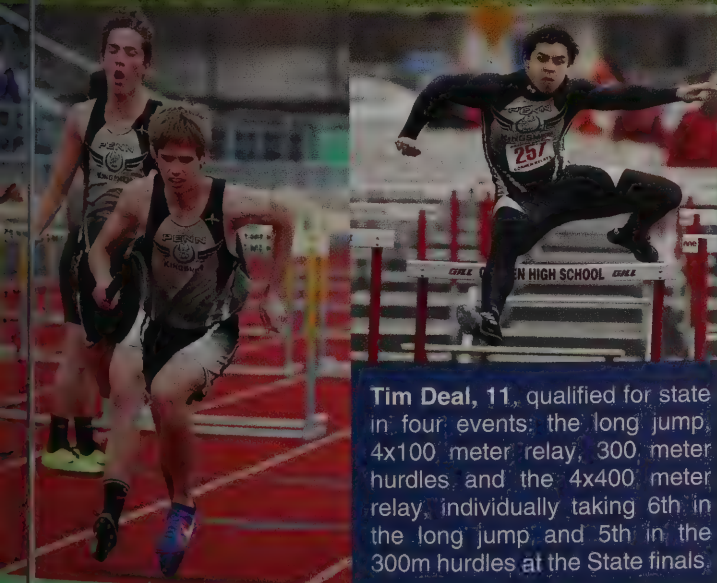

Blake Beehler, 12, and Zach Oakley, 11, handed off in the 4x100 meter relay at the Penn Sectionals, contributing to breaking the NIC record.

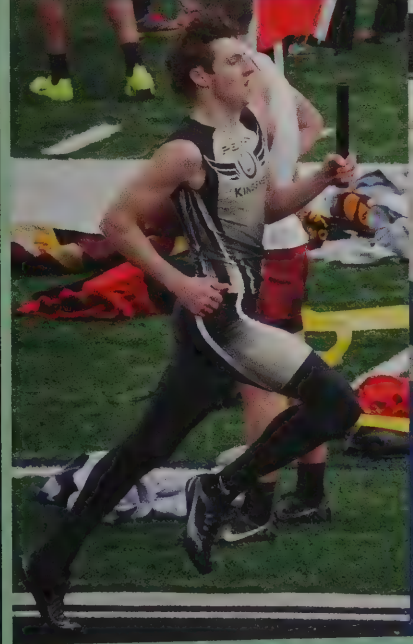

Sam Daggy, 12, competed in the shot put and discus all four years of high school. Daggy made it to state in the discus. He finished 8th at the State finals.

Put on a Show

Tim Deal, 11, qualified for state in four events: the long jump, 4x100 meter relay, 300 meter hurdles and the 4x400 meter relay, individually taking 6th in the long jump and 5th in the 300m hurdles at the State finals.

"Even if the season ended the way you didn't want it to... run every meet with no regrets." Senior Conner Sowders competed in the 400 meter dash and 4x400 meter relay in the State finals.

Leave It All On The Track

Penn Girls' Track

2013 Season

The Penn girls' track team had an amazing season. Despite the weather conditions that canceled many meets, and created difficulty for training, the team went on to win Sectionals. These girls gave 110 percent no matter what, and brought home the Sectional trophy.

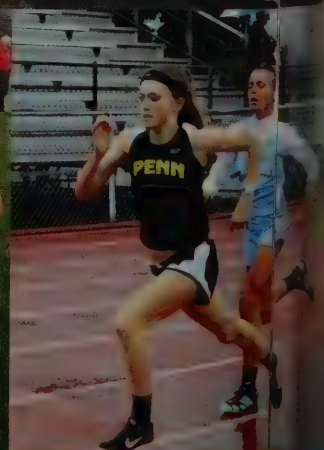

VARSITY 400 METER DASH // Sophomore Amani Hardrict worked hard throughout the entire season, training brutally both on and off the track to reach her goal time in the 400 meter dash. Hardrict taught us that hard work really does pay off.

VARSITY POLE VAULT // Juniors Kelley McNarney and Kourtney Sappenfield were both very motivated and focused. They trained hard on and off the track and even on weekends and days off. The girls soared and competed all the way through the Warsaw Regionals.

VARSITY 3200 METER RUN // Sophomore Madison Woods competed in the State finals for the 2 mile. Her best time of the season was 11 minutes 2.42 seconds, breaking the school record. Woods also competed in the 1600 meter run throughout the season.

"If you fall, get back up, and use it as fuel to do even better the next time," said Brenna Huff, 10. Huff competed in the NIC and Sectionals, and advanced to the Warsaw Regionals in the 100 Meter hurdle.

Maddie Hendershot, 9, competed in high jump, making it through NIC, Sectionals, and finally to the Regionals where she placed 8th. Her best jump was a height of 5 feet 1 inch.

Melanie Nellis, 12, competed at the Sectional meet with personal bests of 105 feet and 4 inches in the discus throw, and 37 feet 6 inches in shot put, helping contribute to the first place title at Sectionals.

Girls and boys track teams from all over the area take place in a dance off after the NIC track meet, doing flips and dance moves, and coming together as one. They may be rivals on the track, but they are friends off of it.

"Taking it to state was a great experience as a freshman. I felt honored I got to represent Penn Track and be able to make it as far as I did. I'm looking forward to be able to set even higher goals for myself in the future," said Mikaylah Woods, freshman. Woods' farthest jump was 17 feet and was one of the two girls that qualified to compete from Penn at the State finals in Bloomington.

TRACK NATION

The members of the Sectional roster celebrated their win of snatching up the Sectional title at Elkhart Central. The total results were Penn with 129.9 points, placing first.

The freshmen and junior varsity baseball teams were made up of a talented group of boys for the 2013 season. The freshmen team went 17-1 while the JV team went 20-4. Freshmen Coach Lucas Fry said, "Our success is not measured in wins or losses. As a coaching staff, we look for growth and development in all aspects of the game. This year's group had fantastic year! We demand a lot out of our kids and these kids showed up eager to learn and continue their maturation in an effort to become varsity players." JV catcher Tim Lira, sophomore, said "Overall, we had a pretty good season. We ended with a good season record. It was an enjoyable year."

There's No Place Like Home

Penn softball is a top program in state contending for a state title every year, and the tradition begins on the junior varsity team. The players didn't just become an elite team by showing up; they worked every day, even when there are no fans.

BATTLE OF THE BANDS

Four talented bands this year played at Penn's Battle of the Bands. Battle was a fun-filled night with much creativity. The four bands that made it in battle were Painless Monday, Treading on Thin Ice, Drifting Away, and Escape Route. Escape Route was the winning band; however, they gave away their prizes to Treading on Thin Ice. When asked why they chose to do so, Escape Route replied with, "Because we did Battle just to play in a band with friends. We did not do it for the prizes." Battle opened with Drifting Away, who did well. Treading on Thin Ice brought a big fan base, who cheered them on. Marian Ho, 10, said that the band's cover of Mumford and Sons "made her cry." Painless Monday gave Battle their all, they were all very excited about being able to perform. Shelby Shannon said, "I came to see Painless Monday. I just like that band." Escape Route gave the crowd a great show and everyone enjoyed them. Battle of the Bands would not have been made possible had it not been for Student Council organizers Alexandra Redden, 12, and Alexzandra Smith, 11. Both girls worked very hard to make it all happen, from auditions to the night of the show. Battle, overall, was a huge success and the talent of many students came out.

Flashback to Woodstock!

Pennstock, Penn's version of Woodstock, is put on by the junior class each year. This year a change had been made, only AP and ACP US History classes got the opportunity to participate in this amazing event. Although regular US History classes were not allowed, they did not get to partake in the activities, students rocked out to the best of their ability. By singing covers for famous songs of the late '60s, Penn students enjoyed a day in the sun making Woodstock memories of their own.

Richa Patel, 11, played the guitar during her version of a classic Beatles song that she sang with Kevin Kuo, 11.

Mr. Dominic Ball is in charge of putting Pennstock together. Without the help of Mr. Ball, Pennstock would not be in existence.

CLASSY & CONFIDENT

As long as they had their suit and tie, senior Alex Polston and senior John Winston were ready to have an unforgettable evening with their dates. Polston opted for a white tux and sky-blue bow-tie, two staples common among senior guys who wanted to make a statement. Winston went more traditional with a little flair in a black pin-stripe tux and purple tie to accent his date's dress.

Prom is an event held in high schools all over America. Proms are different but there are many aspects that are traditional for the perfect prom night. Corsages, worn on the female date's wrist, are a crucial part, along with the boutonniere worn on the male date's tuxedo jacket. Another traditional part of the perfect prom is a delicious dinner before the dance. Some groups go out to eat while others eat a home-cooked meal. Since prom was held the same weekend as Notre Dame's graduation, restaurant reservations had to be made early.

the highlight of the year for many upperclassmen

The Penn Prom promised to be another lovely event. Being held at the Century Center once again was a great venue. The ballroom was filled with props that made the theme of the secret garden really come out. Students got to walk under a tree as the entryway led to the dance floor.

Snow White: The Queen's Fair Daughter

Originally a fairy tale from Germany, Snow White was first collected and published by the Brothers Grimm in 1812 as "Sneewittchen". The original version contained the magic mirror, poisoned apple, glass coffin, and seven dwarves, although they were first named in the 1912 Broadway play "Snow White and the Seven Dwarves". They were given different names for the 1937 Disney movie that we all know and love. Penn's version of the classic was more like the original than the Disney movie.

Queenie

Snow White's evil Queen has come a long way through the years. In the Brothers Grimm version as in Penn's adaptation, the Queen first tries to strangle Snow White with her tight corset, then with a poisoned comb, and finally with an apple. The story varies from country to country, but traces back to the Celtic story of Gold-Tree and Silver-Tree. In that story, Queen Silver-Tree asks an enchanted trout in a nearby forest "Troutie, bonny little fellow, am I not the most beautiful queen in the world?" The trout tells Silver-Tree that her daughter is prettier and she goes home, in shock. Her husband, a Scottish king, is equally shocked to find out that in her envy, Silver-Tree had ordered a servant to cut out the heart and liver to eat. Gold-Tree is sent overseas by her father to marry a foreign prince and live a happy life away from her mother. Silver-Tree travels to find her daughter and is poisoned by a stab that she sticks in Gold-Tree's finger. Gold-Tree lies dead for a year, during which her husband marries again. The second wife finds Gold-Tree and takes her out, bringing her back to life. When Silver-Tree finds out that Gold-Tree is not dead, she returns with a cup of poison to give to her daughter. The second wife again saves Gold-Tree's life by tricking Silver-Tree into drinking the poison herself and she dies.

Who is the fairest?

Cadet teaching is an off campus class available to juniors and seniors. It allows students to experience teaching kids from kindergarten to grade nine. There is also Cadet II, where students are recommended by their instructor and placed in various PHM schools for the whole year for one block each day. Child development is another elective course where students get to interact with pre-schoolers who come to Penn and provide activities for the children.

"June is a month of graduations and weddings and the third most popular month to have a baby. Social scientists call such times of transition 'liminal moments.' You are poised somewhere between what you have always known and the still unknown place to which you are going. The place in between is filled with uncertainty and anticipation." - excerpt from the article "You are not what you do" by Sandy Sasso in The Indianapolis Star, June 4, 2013

WHAT LIES AHEAD by ABBY LUTHER, Graphics Design editor, Bittersweet

While you may not realize it just yet, or perhaps for the next five, ten years, you're standing anxiously on the threshold of defining who you are as a person today. Being the smart Penn graduate you are, you know that I use the word "defined" loosely. There are millions of adults who still haven't quite defined themselves; how should one be expected to do the same at the mere age of eighteen? That's why I say "anxiously standing."

You're teetering on your toes, waiting for that moment to leap into the unknown, waiting for some surge of bravery and courage to overwhelm you and push you in some sort of direction, good or bad. The scariest part of standing on this threshold of everything you once knew (high school, your lifelong friends, your comforts of home, the 3:17 bell) is this leap that is essential to beginning adulthood. As graduates all going our own different directions, the pressure is now on to define your path for the first time in your life. For the first time in your life you're not being told what to do, how to think, what to say and you could very well ruin it all.

But wait, stop, stop—I thought you were supposed to give me some sort of the guidance about what lies ahead?

That's the irony of this all. The only person who knows what lies ahead is not you nor I; nobody on this Earth really knows. What we do know upon leaving the halls of Penn High School is the life lessons we've learned, the formulas we've memorized, the rules we've adhered to; these are the foundations that we're standing upon as we stare into the wide open space of our futures. What lies ahead is purely of our own design; whether it be flawed or flawless, it is ours.

What I ask of all of you, as you still stand on your threshold of time, is to take a second and reflect how far you've come and appreciate it. Appreciate the fact that you're beyond a period of life where things are so awkwardly in flux, and that for once you kind of have control over the outcome of tomorrow. Appreciate your families, your friends, and your teachers. Appreciate those who came generations before you and challenged the system. Appreciate those who respectfully followed the rules. Appreciate the tears over that 89.97% final grade and the sigh of relief when your sweet Spanish teacher rounded it up. Appreciate the light of day, and the air you breathe. Appreciate you. Stand proudly atop of the hill you've climbed and take in all its greatness, because really a lot of you in the Class of 2013 truly deserve this most of all.

With all this on your shoulders and in your heart, I truly believe you are equipped with the courage to take that first step into your future with high hopes that the journey will be everything you want it to be. I reiterate that tomorrow truly exists because of your desire to make it exist; whatever that is made of it is only yours.

Last but not least, because I'm a big Rolling Stones fan, I'll conclude this all with a lovely quote from my friend Mick:

"You can't always get what you want,
but if you try sometimes,
you might find,
you get what you need."

We thought of you today,
but that is nothing new.
We thought of you yesterday,
and will tomorrow, too.

We think of you in silence,
and make no outward show,
for what it meant to lose you,
only those who love you know.

Remembering you is easy,
we do it every day.
It's the heartache of losing you that will never go away.

I think of you often
and make no outward show,
But what it means to lose you,
no one will ever know.

You wished no one farewell,
not even said good-bye,
You were gone before I knew it,
and only God knows why.

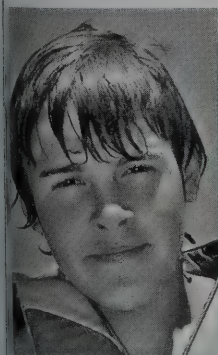

You are not forgotten
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memories last,
I will remember thee.

To some you may be forgotten,
to others a part of the past,
But to me who loved you dearly,
your memories will always last.

Nothing can be more beautiful than the memories I have of you.
To me you were someone special,
God must have thought so, too!

If tears could build a staircase
and memories a lane,
I would walk all the way to Heaven,
and bring you back again.

It's hug time! Love, Nana & Papa

"let's make a book!"

PENN YEARBOOK MAKING MEMORIES LAST.

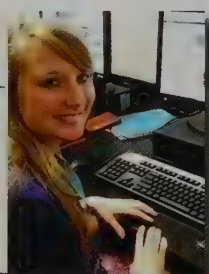

Yearbook is an elective that can be taken if you enjoy taking pictures, writing captions, and making a book full of memories. The class consisted of 24 girls and only one boy and the year proved to be a success. The yearbook staff had to raise $112,000 through selling advertisements, senior ads, and hundreds of books to the students of Penn in order to bring this book to you in all color. This class was stressful at times with pressing deadlines, computer malfunctions and raising money. But everyone can agree the stress is worth the incredible product. The staffers this year bonded over their shared experiences with folio tags, tagging pictures, Mr. Page from Jostens and Pancake Fridays. Once you're in yearbook, you are a part of the yearbook family for life.

MEET the editors

molly ADAMCZYK
BITTERSWEET editor - SENIOR

"Being in yearbook for three years has been such a great time. I love being able to document the life of a Penn student. Being able to be an editor this year has come with a lot of responsibility, but I fully enjoyed every second of it."

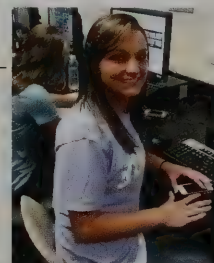

bailey O'MALLEY
BITTERSWEET editor - SENIOR

"I'm inspired by the students of Penn; we're so diverse with a wide array of hobbies and interests. Making a book that showcases everyone connected me with the student body and was truly rewarding. Thank you to everyone who helped us out!"

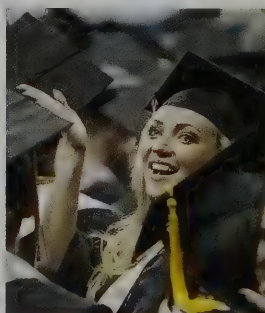

tori CARTWRIGHT
BITTERSWEET editor - SENIOR

"I loved working with the yearbook staff this year. Each person in the class had their own strengths from design layouts to artistic picture taking. I knew I could count on everyone in the class to get their job done and have fun while doing it."

Diligence, commitment and a creative mind are all characteristics needed to be an editor of the yearbook. Tough decisions have to be made and the editor must take the lead. It is a lot of time and effort, but it is well worth it. It really helps having a great teacher, like Mary Nicolini, helping you along every step of the way.

Graphic Designs editor Abbie Luther, 12, is a creative genius. Luther spent many hours in and out of class photoshopping and designing innovative, eye-catching layouts for spreads and her artistic touch can be seen throughout the book. Borrowing from Vogue and other fashion magazines, Luther strived to create a professional, clean look for the page layouts. Leading by example, she got things done—and done well.

abbie LUTHER
BITTERSWEET GRAPHICS DESIGN editor - SENIOR

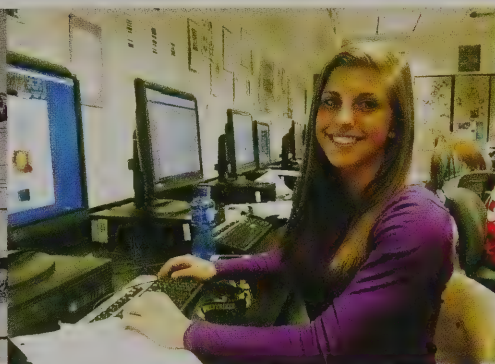

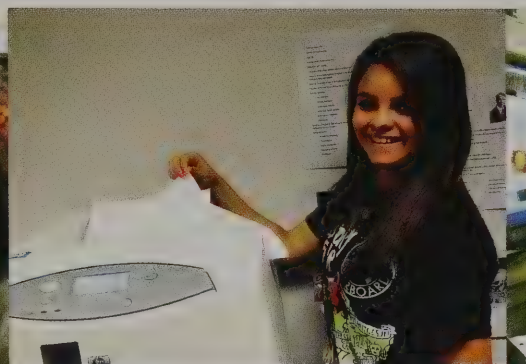

"I have tried to look behind the lens of what I saw everyday within the halls of Penn High School, and dig deeper to tell their story. . . I put my heart into this book."

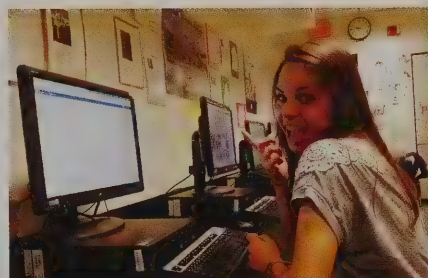

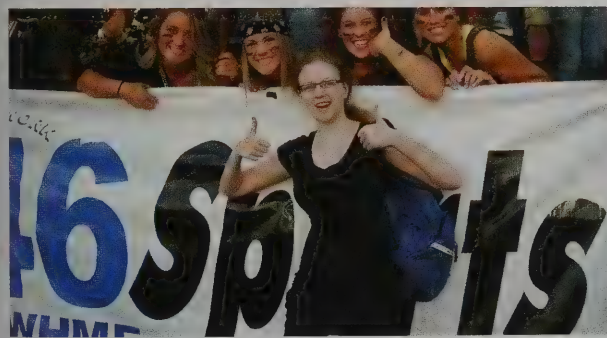

"Being the only boy in the class is tough," joked Jacob Lamb, 11. Lamb was on yearbook staff for a year and a half. He joined the staff second semester of his sophomore year when he moved to Penn. Lamb has worked hard on typing up many of the team names for the group pictures. He also worked hard to assist anyone who needed help. Lamb is always ready to work and that is why we fully love having him on staff.

If you have ever wondered who put all their time and effort into putting many of the senior quotes in the book, it would be thanks to this girl right here. Taylor Silveus, 12, worked diligently throughout the second semester to make sure all the senior quotes were in and typed up. This was the first year that the staff tried to receive the quotes electronically. However, with not many students checking their gmail accounts, we had to go back to some old habits.

Alissa Bloom, 10, and Anna Howell, 10, worked together on their spread, adding the finishing touches. Yearbook is a place where you make lots of new friends. Having a partner to work on a spread is an asset, so you get to spend time with many new people. Yearbook is fun in that way because you get to be social and work on making a great book at the same time. // Maigan Bowles, 12, printed out a form to buy a yearbook to distribute to Penn students. Buying a yearbook not only helps to keep our class running, but it helps students remember all the experiences of the year. The yearbook is a book kept forever. It shows the ways we have changed throughout life. // Lauren Ellenberger, 10, always arrived to class ready to work. She was a new addition to the staff this year and enjoyed being a part of it. Being in yearbook teaches you life lessons, such as how to act professional when you call or visit an advertiser or compromise with peers on the layouts of spreads.

Exchange student from Paris, France, Manon Garnier brought her bubbly spirit to the Penn yearbook, joining the class second semester. She was always ready for work to do, and always got it done, whether typing name after name for a team photo, or designing a layout. This is one of the first times the yearbook staff has had a foreign exchange student. Manon was a pleasure to work with and it was fun to hear about life in Paris at the same time.

Lilly Sipcoz, 11, has been a great asset to the yearbook staff. She is one person who is always willing to step up her game and get the job done. Lilly has taken literally thousands of pictures for yearbook and is always looking for a great photo opportunity. She is a great photographer.

This book is just as much a part of us as it is a part of you, PENN HIGH SCHOOL. Dedicated to all the MOMENTS and memories captured within its' binding, we hope you appreciate our EFFORTS and continue to enjoy this book for years to come.

SINCERELY,

the bittersweet

Teams including Penn students enrolled at the Elkhart Area Career Center were sent to compete in the Hot Rodders of Tomorrow Engine Challenge. They won first place the regional competition, and will compete as a team in Nationals in Indianapolis. The team is made up of students from several area high schools. Penn students are Jake Harris, Tyler Dickson, Dalton Coney and Ben Largent. They earned $4000 in scholarship money each. In October 2012, they were sponsored on a trip to Las Vegas to compete in the National Hot Rodders of Tomorrow Engine Challenge against 16 other teams from across the country. The EACC team won 6th place and a $5000 scholarship for each team member. Coney is starting at Ohio Technical College in July.

Good Night & Good Luck

Dear Penn High School,

Another year has come to a close, and another summer ~~awaits~~. Our minds grow anxious with the thoughts of vacations, relaxation and new beginnings. As the school year wanes, the thought of the end brings with it an array of feelings. Some of us are excited, ready to get away and head off to college. Others of us are apprehensive of the years to come. But all of us seem captivated by what the future may hold.

It seems as though we always wanted to grow up. In elementary school we could not wait to be in middle school, and then in middle school we could not wait to be in high school. We wanted to take the next step, thinking that time never moved fast enough. Now that we are here – about to go on to college, to work, to the military, about to leave what has become familiar to us – we realize that those years have flown by. What we yearned for is finally here. And we are ready for it.

An astounding 879 seniors will be graduating from Penn this year. Over the course of our four years as students, we became Kingsman strong. Being Kingsman strong means being able to tackle challenges and adapt to change with confidence. The path of life is uncertain, but Kingsmen are not afraid of the unknown. They relish the freedom. Mistakes are bound to happen, and Kingsmen do not worry about making them. They realize mistakes are life lessons and can be viewed as a way to build character. Therefore, as editors, we chose “What makes a Kingsman?” as our theme for the Penn High School 2012-2013 yearbook, Bittersweet.

Bittersweet Road, home to Penn High, is where early mornings educated us, mistakes matured us, and friendships strengthened us. This street is home to our high school careers. It is the scene of many milestones and “firsts.” As you move on in life, always remember the memories you made here in Mishawaka, Indiana. Collectively, they molded you into the person you are today. Now it is time for us to leave this road and expand our horizons. Come this fall, as the graduated seniors step into their first lecture hall on their college campus, their barracks at boot camp, or their work places, a new freshmen class will walk the halls of Penn, sophomores will become upperclassmen, and the juniors will realize they have one year left to make their mark. But do not worry, there is always room to grow. Good luck to all of you.

We thank you, Penn students and staff, for making the school year unpredictable and unforgettable. Documenting all the craziness that took place within the building and on the fields has given us purpose and we've loved it. Countless hours have been devoted to the production of this book, so we hope you enjoy this as much as we do.

Thank you, Penn High School.

It's been real,

Bittersweet Editors-in-Chief

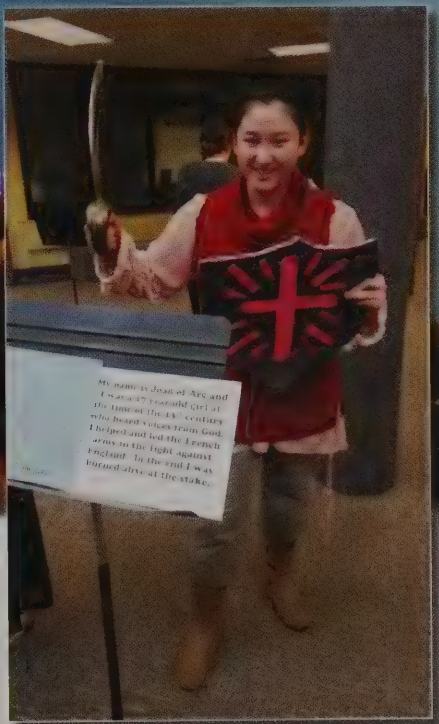

Like a permanent marker, we can't live high school twice
So my fellow Kingsmen, let me give you some advice
This journey can be long, complex, four years in fact
By the end, we're ready to say goodbye, move on, our bags are packed
But as we progress through this chapter of our life's storybook
Let's hold on to those memories, let's take one more look At the warm, genuine friendships that have blessed our paths at the shenanigans, the adventures, the senioritis and the laughs at the teachers who challenged us, whom we respect and wish to thank at our first dance, our first football game, and that unexpected full gas tank
At the journey of finding ourselves, our passions and our truths
At the beauty of discovery, creativity, and the endeavors of youth
So I challenge you Kingsmen, to never forget
The moments that have shaped us, and the moments that are yet to be experienced in the next school year in the fall
As we stand, together, all for one and one for all.
Let's thank Penn High School for all it's given us, and let us be,
And promise to always keep it in our hearts and memories.
